FINANCIAL.

AN ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

A Banker's Views upon the Financial Situation—Substantial Condition of the U. S. Treasury.

[Our Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 7, 1891.

During the past week, the tone of affairs in Wall street has shown distinct signs of improvement. The "bear" element has been more cautious, and some prominent operators on that side have narrowed their risks while others openly acknowledge that the drift is against them. The forces on the "bull" side are gathering strength and numbers, and some of the most noted leaders of speculation are beginning to mar shal themselves for an upward campaign.

This change of tone can hardly be said to have been the result of anything new of decided importance in the actual situation. It has been some gain that, as the contest between the two sides on the silver question develops, the chances of the pro-silver party being defeated (at least for the present session) decidedly improve; and although some desperate expedients may still be adopted by the mining interests, yet their ultimate defeat seems very probable. This has no doubt helped the tone of the market quite materially; for the possibility of the enactment of free coinage has had a more seriously damaging effect upon confidence in high quarters than is generally apprehended.

Another contribution toward recovery has come through a quite unexpected improvement in the January earnings of the Western roads, and especially in those of the Granger lines, which was the last thing to have been expected. The recovery is not large in amount, but it is very general, and coming in place of an expected decline its effect is the more marked. It suggests a probability that the common estimate of future earnings may have been put below what the facts really warrant; and if that conclusion should be confirmed by later experience it would undoubtedly have a marked effect upon prices. Beyond this fact, there is the further encouragement that Chicago advices report some actual advances in rates and a more or less general tendency to higher charges both for passengers and freight. It is also worth something, as an element of confidence in the future, that the Western Railway Association has well nigh completed all its working arrangements, including the allotment of traffic, and seemingly with a unanimity and good feeling which augur well for the prospects of this new method of regulating railroad competition. It is true that, along side these unexpected favorable developments in railroad interests, there is the disheartening revival of hostile State legislation both by the Grangers and the Farmers' Alliance; but these attempts will be met with a thoroughness of opposition and with an application of constitutional tests, both State and Federal, which will at least soon settle for the whole coutry what can and what can not be done by this destructive sort of warfare. The probability seems to be that, within a few months, there will be a great body of legal decisions showing that the farmers' conception of what constitutes "reasonable charges" for carriage is something very different from the canception of the courts.

The influences above noted as affecting the tone of the market favorably might have had little influence under different circumstances. But, coming now, they find a market prepared to yield a full response. Both here and in London money is becoming so abundant and holders of balances are becoming so anxious to employ them that the slightest smptoms of improved conditions in investments must encourage buying. Moreover, it is to be kept in mind that the recent crisis has left behind no widespread depression or disorganization; its check to business has been but momentary and superficial, and the creation of national wealth is going on at its usual rate, while the launching of new corporate enterprises is at the lowest minimum. There must be therefore the usual legitimate demand for investment securities; and when bonds and stocks yielding five and six per cent. on their current market value can be had in large amounts, and money is exceptionally low and likely to remain so for the year 1891, it hardly seems to admit af a second opinion whether an active buying of the stocks is not an element of the near future.

The Bank of England was prepared to pay its £3,000,000 loan from the Bank of France when she reduced her rate to 3 per cent., and the question there of 1 per cent. for money in the open market, in the close prospect of such an important withdrawal from the bank shows how extreme the case in London must be. The uncertainty as to the final disposal of the free coinage movement is, at the moment, a serious drawback upon London buying our stocks; but in the event of the defeat of silver legislation London buying is likely to assume a volume that will surprise Wall street, and prove a great stimulus to prices of both stocks and bonds.

Some Interesting Items.

The following items of interest appear in the current financial statement of this county. For the Andrews murder trial is found the following:

For sundry witnesses	$621.57
J. L. Spangler, award for defense	100.00
For surveying—balance	61.35
Dr. Formad, expert chemist	220.00
G. G. Rond, " "	270.00
Linden Detective Agency	89.96
J. H. Orvis, fee	275.00
J. ofner, undertaker	35.00
Jury fees	265.08
Boarding jury	126.50
	$2066 41

The above does not represent the entire cost of the Andrews case to the county by any means. The cost of the death watch of Hopkins and Andrews was $261.00.

Another item is that of scalp premiums paid a total of $941.90. This includes 738 fox,32 wildcat and 142 mink scalps. For the burial of indigent soldiers almost five hundred dollars were spent, while it required almost two thousand to pay for the lunatics at the various asylums and the criminals at the reformatory and penitentiary. About the smallest item on the list was the amount spent on the public park, $10.50.

State Sanitary Convention.

The Fifth State Sanitary Convention of Pennsylvania will be held in Altoona, Friday and Saturday, May 15th and 16th, 1891, under the auspices of the State Board of Health, assisted by the Board of Health of Altoona and a committee of citizens. This is not in any sense a doctor's convention. All who take an intelligent interest in the promotion of sanitary reform and the protection of the public health are invited not only to attend and take part in the discussion but to forward to the secretary, Dr. Benj. Lee, 1532 Pine St., Philadelphia, for consideration by the Committee of the Board, not later than April 15th, papers on sanitary or hygienic subjects which they would like to present before the convention.

$4,000,000 IN DISPUTE.

THE SHOENBERGER ESTATE IS SUED FOR A LARGE SUM.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mr. John H. Shoenberger, who died at his residence No. 43 West Fifty-seventh Street, this city about a year ago, left an estate valued at $8,000,000. It appears Mr. Shoenberger was appointed the testamentary trustee, by the will of his father, Dr. Peter Shoenberger, of Pennsylvania, of the children of his deceased sister, Mrs. Pollard *Mc*Cormick. These children—Dr. George T. *Mc*Cormick, of New York, and Peter Shoenberger McCormick, and Sophie McCormick, of Philadelphia—now claim $4,000,000 to be due them by their late uncle and trustee John H. Shoenberger, and sue his estate for this amount.

The complaints were served on the executors yesterday and suits were commenced in the Supreme Court of New York and Philadelphia. A bitter contest is expected, and an army of lawyers representing different charitable institutions will engage in the fray.

[The above has reference to the Shoenberger estate located in Huntingdon and Blair counties, and in the western part of this state. Probably all of our readers remember when Mr. Shoenberger died there was considerable newspaper discussion over the philanthropic and charitable disposition as shown from the strange bequests made in his will.—ED.]

FUNNY SAM JONES.

He is Afraid That He Will Have to Kill Some Smart Aleck.

LA GRANGE, TEX., February 6.—Sam Jones delivered a lecture at the opera house here last night. On being questioned as to the unpleasantness at Palestine, he spoke freely of the matter and said he was on the depot platform, waiting for a train, valise in hand, when a man asked: "Is this Sam Jones?" to which he replied, "That is my forgiven name."

"The fellow," said Mr. Jones, "then hit me in the face with a cane, cutting a deep gash across my cheek and also hit me on the shoulders. I then put down my valise, grabbed the man's cane, wrung it out of his hand, and started in and literally wore him out. We separated, and I left him in the hands of some doctors. He will know who to jump on the next time. It was a pitiful sight to see the fellow try to draw his pistol. I am glad he could not get it out, for I would have taken it away from him and might have had to kill him. I dislike this very much, as I have been out of this line of business for the last eighteen years.

"I am afraid this kind of thing is not going to stop here. Some smart Aleck will want to whip me again. I won't have peace until I kill some one. I criticised the town government of Palestine for permitting all kinds of violations of laws. The keno call of gambling dens could be distinctly heard by ladies at church during the hours of service, and I pleaded for the women and children. I never saw the honorable mayo e fore. I called on him to come up on the stage if he was in the audience, but he did not appear, nor did he offer to whip me last November."

IF the youthful editor of the Centre Democrat will take the trouble to look at the printing account in the late financial statement of Centre county he will see that this office has no reason to squeal over the "fat jobs of county printing" it will now fail to get.

THE COUNTY TAX TO BE DOUBLED.

Already it is evident that the county tax for 1891 will be just double what it was in 1890. Last year the rate was but two mills on the dollar. This year it will be four. Though there has been no announcement as yet by the new Board of Commissioners what millage they will lay, yet it is very plain, from their estimate of funds needed for 1891, just what rate they will make. Their estimate for funds needed for 1891 is $40,100. They claim an indebtedness of $5,267, which would make $46,000 needed this year to pay running expenses and discharge this trumped up sum of $5,000.

The estimate of property value in the county subject to taxation is but $11,500,000. This at four mills will bring in but $46,000 if every cent is collected. The amount that will this year be received from side issues, such as liquor licenses, unseated lands, etc., will be very small, so that general taxation will be the one source from which the entire amount of revenue can be drawn. Under the condition of affairs it is very easy to be seen what the result will be. The farmers of Centre county will be compelled to pay a tax of four mills on the dollar; and from present appearances a goodly portion of this tax will go to fill the pockets of the party favorites and political ringsters.

Will the people of Centre county calmly submit to such extortion? Remember that you have seen how economical the county could be run during the past three years. You will now have an opportunity to make a just comparison. The cry that the county is so much in debt is all blab. The figures are manufactured to suit the occasion and to give foundation for the raise in taxation that is sure to come. Will the farmers suffer such robbery in silence? Most certainly not; they will be compelled to for three years, and then apply the remedy.

Too Much License.

On Thursday an item appeared in this paper stating that Senator Meek had introduced a bill in the Senate providing for the granting of licenses on a basis of one license to each 700 population. In Centre county there are now eighteen licensed bars. The population of the county is 43,000; thus it will be seen that the present rate in Centre county is one license for every 2,400 inhabitants. If Mr. Meek's bill should become a law, and licenses granted according to the proposed act, Centre county would then have about 60 drinking places instead of 18. In Bellefonte there would be 7 instead of 3. This is entirely too much drink. Mr. Meek had better amend his bill, and make it one saloon to every seven thousand, instead of seven hundred, if he wants to keep the respect of his Centre county temperance constituents, and there is no need to tell him they are not few in number.

THE "soldier racket" is undoubtedly "played out" with all Democratic politicians and office holders. They have never had a warm spot for the men who suffered untold misery and privation for the welfare and perpetuity of this government. If an old soldier wants to get even justice he need not seek it in or at the hands of the Democratic party.

TRULY enough do the people of this borough want to elect men this spring who will decrease instead of increase the tax millage in this borough. The borough now pays 38 mills on the dollar tax, and the income is not sufficient to meet the expense.

SLEEPING BEAUTY!

PRETTY MISS GRACE GRIDLEY SLEEPS FOR NINE LONG MONTHS.

SHE FINALLY AWAKES LIKE A BABY.

AMBOY, Ill., Feb. 11.—A strange and wonderful case is that of pretty Grace Gridley, better known as "the Sleeping Beauty of Amboy," who has just awakened from a sleep of nine months.

Her case, first given to the public about six months ago, through the columns of the DAILY NEWS, has attracted the attention of medical people from all over the country, and has been the subject of elaborate discussions. The marvellous feature of the case is the prolonged suspension of mental animation in the absence of the usual wasting of physical energies.

As to the history of the case, this quaint little old-fashioned New Englandish town has a very strange story to tell.

There was a great religious revival in Amboy last spring, held in the Congregational Church. Every one in Amboy who was a consistent church member attended regularly and strove hard for the conversion of those who were not. It was a time of great religious excitement—a glorious revival, they said, such as Amboy had not seen for years. Among the most tireless workers was Grace Gridley. Tall, fair and graceful, this nineteen-year-old-girl with the handsome, earnest face, gave her whole heart to the work, thinking of nothing else.

A LONG REST.

The strain upon her nerves and mind became much greater than her strength. One evening she went home utterly exhausted. The next morning the rising sun crept in at the window of her bed room and shone full upon her sleeping face, but waked her not.

She did not appear at her accustomed place at the table, and when her mother went to call her she was sleeping so soundly that the good woman said:

"Let her sleep, poor dear; she must be very tired."

So she slept all the morning, and when she failed to arouse in the afternoon her mother attempted to awaken her, but could not do so. She became frightened and sent for a physician. But nothing could be done to arouse the girl. With lightly closed eyes, half smiling lips, rosy cheeks and gently heaving breast the girl slumbered on day after day and week after week.

The first symptom of this strange sleep appeared (unnoticed at the time) about the middle of March, during the revival. Grace began to sleep quite late of mornings, contrary to her usual habit. It was then thought that she was greatly fatigued with the nervous excitement of her work, and she was allowed to sleep. One day she was still in bed at noon, and her mother carried her breakfast up to her, thinking she must be ill. She was awakened with difficulty, and although apparently in the best of health, she replied to her mother dreamily that she did not want to eat.

"I ought not to have waked up," she said, regretfully.

This strange remark was afterward recalled. She ate sparingly in response to urging, and quickly went to sleep again. Her mother left her, a little troubled, but not greatly alarmed. Then came the night of great excitement, followed by complete exhaustion and the following sound sleep, from which she could not be aroused. She lay limp and motionless, but with heart and respiration normal.

INEFFECTUAL ATTEMPTS TO AROUSE THE SLEEPER.

Dr. Travers, who was called in, was unable to make a satisfactory diagnosis. All efforts to arouse the girl were futile. On the third day Dr. Travers decided to try the effect of a galvanic battery. The electric current was turned on stronger and stronger, the eyelids of the sleeper suddenly quivered, she moved restlessly and then the spell fell and she sat upright and talked.

She expressed no surprise, but said she had been conscious all the while and knew all that had taken place in the room. She talked naturally, without the least emotion, and said she suffered no pain except just as she awoke.

"I oughn't to have awoke," she said again, and with that she ceased speaking and became drowsy. Her head dropped upon the pillow and her eyes closed. Dr. Travers immediately applied the battery.

"Don't, don't," she murmured, as if in great pain. "You'll kill me—kill me—don't!"

And she sank away, fast asleep. In vain the physician turned on a stronger current—still stronger and stronger—as strong as he dared. It was useless, and he ceased to apply it any longer.

Once since then she awoke. It was the next day. Mrs. Gridley was alone in the sitting room below when Grace suddenly appeared in the door way, apparently awake and possessed of all her faculties.

She did not notice her mother, but crossed quickly to a table, upon which lay a bible. She snatched it up in her arms and then sank to the floor, as a woman faints. She was tenderly carried back to her bed, where she has been until now.

A MEDICAL STATEMENT.

"It is a cataleptic hysteria," said Dr. Travers. "It differs from catalepsy in this way: The muscles are rigid in catalepsy; hers are not; she seems to have a certain amount of control over them. When she tired of lying on one side she turned over on the other. This is the only move she has made.

"Religious excitement is the only cause of it," continued the Doctor. "I can best explain it by using the word introspection. She was in that condition of mind when the thoughts were all turned inward—introspection—entirely, and she lost the last vestige of interest in outward matters It is a psychological and nervous phenomenon; not without parallel, but truly a remarkable one."

The same opinion was expressed by other physicians who was called into consultation.

THE AWAKENING.

So the days and weeks passed on with no change in the girl's condition. Summer faded to autumn and autumn to winter, and still the girl slept on, tenderly guarded by those around her bedside.

Suddenly last Friday a change came. Miss Grace opened her eyes with a little yawn, turned over and looked at the nurse in a doubtful way. Shen then quickly arose and dressed without a word, and went down stairs, when she took her place at the table as usual. To the surprised inquiries of her parents she paid no heed, but silently ate a little food prepared for her.

Since then she has been about as usual, but, strange to say, does not notice any one around her. When pressed by her mother she only answered in guttural tones, which had no semblance to human language. She had evidently lost the faculty of articulation. Her present condition is as much a puzzle to her parents and friends as her long sleep.

THE PRODIGALS.

"Princes! and you most valorous
Nobles! and barons of all degrees!
Hearken awhile to the prayer of us—
Beggars that come from the over-seas!
Nothing we ask or of gold or fees;
Harry us not with the hounds, we pray;
Lo!—for the surcoat's hem we seize—
Give us—ah! give us—but Yesterday.

Dames, most delicate, amorous!
Damosels, blithe as the belted bees!
Hearken awhile to the prayer of us—
Beggars that come from the over-seas!
Nothing we ask of the things that please;
Weary are we, and worn, and gray;
Lo!—for we clutch and we clasp your knees—
Give us—ah! give us—but Yesterday!

"Damosels, dames, be piteous!"
(But the dames rode fast by the roadway trees).
"Hear us, O knights magnanimous!"
(But the knights pricked on in their panoplies).
Nothing they gat or of hope or ease,
But only to beat on the breast and say:
"Life we drank to the dregs and lees;
Give us—ah! give us—but Yesterday!"

ENVOY.

Youth, take heed to the prayer of these!
Many there be by the dusty way—
Many that cry to the rocks and seas:
"Give us—ah! give us—but Yesterday!"

What May Be Patented.

A United States patent will be granted to any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture, or improvement thereof, not known or used by others in this country, and not patented or described in any printed publication in this nor any other country, before his discovery or invention thereof, and not in public use nor on sale for more than two years prior to his application, unless the same is proven to have been abandoned.

In this connection the word "art" means the process or method of producing an old or new result. If a method of doing anything contains one or more new steps, the process is new and patentable.

The word "machine" means any device or thing by means of which a mechanical result may be produced, such as a pin, a churn, or a locomotive.

The word "manufacture" means a made up article, such as furniture, clothing, harness, and the thousands of things which are offered for sale. "Composition of matter" means a chemical compound of ingredients, such as hard rubber, liquid glue, medicine, etc.

Patents may also be obtained for designs for manufactures and works of art, for three, seven, and ten years.

Trade marks may be registered for any arbitrary sign or symbol which is not descriptive; the Government fee is $25. Such marks are the exclusive property of the registrar for 30 years, and the time may be extended.

A "label" is any descriptive tag, print, or impression to be placed upon any article or its case, and it may be registered for 28 years. The Government fee for a "label" is $6; but if it contains any special mark or symbol, the office decides it to be a "Trade mark" instead of a label.

The Use of Tears.

The use of tears is not generally appreciated, even by those who shed them most freely, says the Newcastle Chronicle. It is assumed that tears are shed occasionally as an expression of grief, though tears of joy are not wholly unknown. This, however, is a mistake, for the discharge of tears is continuous and the flow of moisture from the lachrymal glands serves a very beautiful provision of nature. An immense quantity of fine dust is always floating in the air, and though this is impalpable to the vision, it would soon obscure the sight if allowed to remain in the eyes. The continuous flow of moisture from the lachrymal glands is sufficient to keep the eyeballs clear from this accumulation of dust, but when any grit, insect, or smoke gets into the eyes it so affects the nerves as to cause an extra flow of tears to clear it away. Tears are thus involuntary, and may be caused by any pungent vapor, such as arise from acids or the odor of onions. The chief element in the composition of a tear is water, but with water is associated minute proportions of salt, soda, phosphate of lime, phosphate of soda, and mucus; and when seen under the microscope a tear after evaporation looks like a very small fish bone, owing to the salines forming themselves into lengthened crosslines.

Medical Training and the Languages.

In a recent address before one of the largest medical associations in the United States, the speaker argued that the medical student's work should begin with his academic life; that the selection of a career in medicine being determined upon, attention should be given to the cultivation of the mind in the study of Latin, Greek, German, French, physics, etc., to the exclusion of the higher mathematics. Every one admits that a knowledge of Latin is essential to intelligent medical training, and when one is reminded that practically one-half of the words in Dunglison's Medical Dictionary are of Greek origin, it is not difficult to become convinced that this dead language is equally essential. As far as medicine is concerned, nothing can be more deplorable than the decline of Greek in the classical curriculum. In Hungary according to a recent letter in the New York Times, it has been abolished, while in Italy it is treated as an optional aid to philology. The importance of German and French may be appreciated when it is estimated that about one-half of current medical literature appears in these languages.—[Harper's Weekly.

Modern Scientific Research and Modern Doubt.

The relation of the teachings of geology to the first chapters of Genesis has excited so much attention in these later years that the moral truth contained in this portion of the bible has often been left in the background. That the earth was gradually prepared to be the dwelling place of man, and arranged to correspond to the wants of his nature, is a fact of importance. But higher truth than this enriches the first pages of the sacred volume. There, at the outset, stands the great protest against pantheism and atheism—the sublime announcement sounding like the voice of the Creator himself: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth!" Then there is the description of man, as exalted above the lower orders of being through the possession of a living soul that comes directly from his Maker and bears his image—a denial of the degrading theories which, on account of resemblance of physical organization, have sought to identify mind with matter and to represent the beast as on a level with the rational creature.

Then follows the momentous fact of man's fall from holiness—involving, of course, his freedom and responsibleness, the origin of sin in the voluntary transgression of law, and that wonderful description of the phenomena of guilt, to the essential truth of which every heart responds: "And Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden!" We have here a series of statements that warn the conscience, now as always, not to listen to the suggestion that sin is an accident, or something involved in the nature of man, as the plant is included in the seed, but ever to look upon sin as man's own perverse, guilty act, done in disregard of the will of God. And then the mysterious connection of physical disorder and distress with the moral ruin of man is asserted; and thus the sufferings of the human race are made consistent with God's wisdom and justice.

It would be easy to show that this mass of truth—however it may be clothed in figure and symbol—enters into all Christian views of God, of man, his rights, and his duties to his master and his neighbor, and constitutes to this day the impregnable doctrine—impregnable because grateful to reason, as well as verified by scripture—by which Christianity confronts pantheism and all the different theories that are really, though unconsciously, its fruit. On the foundation of this mass of truth, Christianity, the system of redemption from sin and its consequences, is founded. Whence, one might ask, did the Israelites get these moral ideas, by the side of which the Greek philosophy, the ripest product of uninspired wisdom, is so defective? They must have had light from above.

But while geology has expanded, the lesson of Genesis is that the earth was made for man and was adapted to meet his wants, the science of astronomy would appear to have a contrary tendency. In the room of the old idea that the firmament was spread out and hung with glittering lights for the sake of the earth and man, we are now taught that the earth is itself a diminutive star, and that but a small portion of the stellar universe can be discerned by the human eye. Indeed, the Copernican discovery has produced a total revolution in our conceptions of the material creation. The earth has been driven, as a usurper, from her throne of glory in the center of the worlds to a little nook in the boundless empire. Yet, as the old Hebrews believed, as we know, to whom the Gospel has come, even better than they, God is mindful of man. He does think of us. He never ceases to care for us. Even the host of stars, whatever grander office they fulfill in the universe, are made at the same time to be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and for years, and to be lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth. Whatever nobler purposes they may accomplish, for this use, also, they were adapted by the Creator.

The intention of the Creator to elevate and gratify the human mind by spreading over us the sunlit and starlit sky is undeniable. One motive, therefore, in the structure of the material universe, was the good of man. Thus does the Creator consult our happiness in those contrivances which are destined to accomplish other ends remote from our comprehension. Out of all the worlds he has erected a roof over man's destiny. At the moment when we are awed by the revelation of his greatness we are touched by the disclosures of his condescension.—[Professor George P. Fisher.

The Pittsburg Baron Munchausen.

A certain young lady of Pittsburg, who has not yet reached her third birthday, makes her papa's life a burden by her persistent demand for "'tories."

"Tell me a 'tory, papa," she will say, and papa has to submit.

Under the encouragement of his little daughter "papa" is developing into a Baron Munchausen of no mean caliber.

One day, not long ago, in response to an urgent invitation, the following "'tory" was told:

"Once there was a mosquito. This mosquito had a family of three young mosquitoes in a nest up a big tree. The little mosquitoes said to their mamma, 'We's very hungry.' Then the mamma mosquito went to a house where there was a nice fat baby asleep in a crib. The mamma mosquito carried the baby off to her nest, and divided it up among her children.

"Two of the little mosquitoes had a leg apiece, and the mamma mosquito and the other little baby mosquito each ate an arm. After these were eaten the rest of the fat baby was put away for supper. That's all of that story."

When the narration was concluded the unsatisfied infant remarked: "Tell me a bigger 'tory than that, papa."—[Harper's Young People.

"DARKEST ENGLAND."

GENERAL BOOTH'S PLAN FOR THE RELIEF OF ENGLAND'S POOR.

The Salvation Army Leader's Project Meeting With Favor—The "Submerged Tenth"—A Radical and Far Reaching Scheme—£1,000,000 Needed to Endow the Enterprise.

The chief of the Salvation Army, "General" Booth, has suggested, in a book that is exciting deep interest, a plan for the relief of what he calls the "submerged tenth" of Great Britain. Mr. Stanley's description, in "Darkest Africa," of the Congo Forest and its people seemed to General Booth so typical of the condition of East London, that he has called his book "Darkest England, and the Way Out."

Is is possible here only to assert that the lives of the people of East London, that portion of the great city given over to the lowest and most hopeless classes, reach a point of misery and degradation almost beyond the belief of the more fortunate.

These classes throughout the United Kingdom, inclusive of London, number, according to General Booth, 3,000,000 souls, nearly as many as all the people of Scotland. The extent of the evil shows the difficulty of dealing with it. In this work it is asserted, and by many admitted, that the Salvation Army has been most successful. Through an extension of its methods, General Booth would show the "submerged" the "way out" of their wretchedness.

His scheme is radical, and of great proportions. He proposes to attack the problem by means of three so called colonies, the City, the Farm, and the Over Sea.

The plan of the City Colonies is derived in part from that of the Salvation Army Food and Shelter Depots, successful establishments, where all comers are received at fourpence a night in payment for supper, breakfast, and a sleeping place. Under the new arrangement, a Labor Yard will give the opportunity to pay one's way by work. Besides this, a Household Salvage Brigade is proposed for the purpose of collecting the vast waste of food, tins, and other scraps that would be utilized by villagers, but must be thrown away in cities.

In these and other minor occupations the inmates, for whom those in charge have not found regular employment or returned to friends, may show their capacity for steady work. When it is sufficiently proved, they are ready to send to the Farm Colony.

The purchase of an estate of 500 to 1,000 acres near London, and close to a railway, is to provide for this second branch of the undertaking. Waste land and waste labor will thus come together. The farm itself is expected to train all capable men in agriculture of various sorts. The care of small fruits will give special opportunities to women.

An Industrial Village, the nucleus of the Farm Colony, will contain factories to convert the Salvage Brigade's scraps into useful articles, the bones into buttons, the tins into toys, and so on through the list. The waste food, such as is not fit for human use, will go to the pigs and other animals on the farm.

From service in this second grade of the enterprise, more persons will be restored to friends, and the usual employments of men and women. Others still will show their fitness for promotion to the third and last settlement, the Over Sea Colony.

In England's foreign possessions General Booth believes suitable tracts for this colony may easily be found. With some knowledge of farm life, on land prepared by pioneers for settlement, granted to the colonists as their individual property under the sole obligation to repay the expense of their journey and outfit, ruled by good laws, the men and women rescued from Darkest England will have a fair chance to live their new lives.

For the endowment of the enterprise General Booth asks £1,000,000, less than the cost of a single first class ship of war. The evident advantages of the plan are that it begins in the core of the evil it would conquer; from the first it cultivates self dependence instead of pauperism; throughout it is progressive, leading men on from strength to strength.

Of course objections are raised to the plan: that the cause of wretchedness and misery is largely in the people themselves; that other agencies to accomplish the same end are in operation; that the successful execution of the plan requires more ability of leadership than can be found.

Yet when all is said, the plan surely deserves serious consideration. Such a nation as England might afford enormous experiments, undertaken with reasonable hope of solving one of her gravest problems.

What Ruined the Meeting.

Mr. Wiggins—Well, my dear, did the Woman's Society for Reforming the Earth have a good meeting?

Mrs. Wiggins (a fair reformer)—Well, just so so. You see, business was going on beautifully when some one asked the president about the new bonnets worn by the younger Sorosis women at their annual meeting.

"Proceed."

Mrs. W. (blushingly)—And then—then the hour for adjournment had come and gone before she got through.—[Pittsburg Bulletin.

A Sea Bath in Winter.

A writer in the Ladies' Home Journal brings a timely matter to mind: "People who are fond of sea bathing in summer should know that in winter a most effective and yet simple substitute for sea water is a cup of rock salt dissolved in warm water and added to the bath. A warm salt bath of this kind is the most refreshing tonic for an exhausted body. But don't go out of doors after taking it. Just before going to bed is the right time.

One of the strongest characteristics of genius is the power of lighting its own fire.

FUNNY THINGS OF THE CENSUS.

Singular Disabilities Reported — Queer Names of Towns and People.

A good many funny things have been said about the taking of the 11th census, but most of them were based upon the experience of the enumerators in securing the information asked for. Other funny things are constantly cropping out that are fully as ludicrous, if not more so, than those already told. A gentleman recently connected with the Census Bureau has given some of these to a Washington Star man.

One kind hearted enumerator in Indiana, with a delicacy worthy of emulation, describes a lady in his district as being "deformed in right eye." Every one has heard coarse and ribald remarks about eyes whose axis of vision was obliqued, but the man from the hoop pole section struck a new style.

Another Indiana man mentioned a considerable number of persons in his returns as "Disabled by rum," or "partially disabled by rum." That paralyzed the clerks until a shrewd one decided that the enumerator reported "rum" as an abbreviation of rheumatism and correspondence proved he was right.

From Illinois a man is reported as "deaf in his ears." The official was probably thus particular for fear that the superintendent might think the deafness was in the shoulders or knee joints.

Referring to the "deformity in right eye," many schedules returned reported persons afflicted with "crippled speech" or "speech deformed."

A citizen of Arkansas raised such a serious row with an enumerator that the case was duly reported. The citizen insisted that he should be reported on the schedule as "disabled; loss of arms," because "some son of a hoss pistol stole my revolver and bowie when I was full." Not so reported.

"Innocent Wolf" was found to be the head of a family at Atchison, Kan., Indian, of course, and very appropriately named.

There are some very queer names found in the schedules, and hear are a few specimens: Mr. Coldmorning, of Indiana, is naturally reported as having chronic rheumatism. Lizzie Openlock is not a burglar, but is rheumatic. Miss Canine, lives at Crawfordsville. John Musselman, of Kansas, is not a Mohammedan, as the name would apply. David Bonecutter is not a surgeon, but a Kansas farmer. Mary Taught is properly a Texas schoolmarm.

Love's Level is in North Carolina and was enumerated by T. L. Love, but Daniel Great Cupid is reported "crippled" at Georgetown, S. C. Peter E. Gingrass, of Marquette, evidently found a new way to spell peppermint.

William Beleicle, of Utica, came pretty near being eligible for a bicycle club. Charles Hardwork is a Pennsylvania shoemaker. William B. Skeleton, Ohio, has lost one eye; most of his name have no eyes at all. Because an Indiana man is named Cooprider it is not proof that he is illegally fond of chickens. Neither is his name proof that Mr. Morningstar, West Virginia, gets up early in the morning. Charles Fatman is in Concord, Ill.

The strangest lot of names was reported from a single district in Los Angeles county, California, when in sequence on one schedule are the names of James Blue, John Gray, William White, Edward Brown, Samuel Green, William Redd, and Henry Black. In two other districts in the same county the curious census clerk found the following names representing the vegetable and mineral kingdoms: James Wood, George Ash, William Tree, Frank Cane, Arthur Pine, Edward Maple, George Oaks, Edward Apple, George Vine, Henry Root, James Glass, Edward Irons, Rudolph Silver, James Coke, Albert Pitcher, and Fred Steel.

There are queer names of towns and villages also: "Boy" is in Tennessee, as is "Mill Point" in Sullivan county, which latter seems an appropriate location for the next physical argument of the pride of Boston and the histrionic art. "Caraway," N. C., if there's anything in a name, must be seedy, and "Hives," same State, where all hands scratch for a living. "Flea Hill," N. C., should be a very lively place, and a considerable number of inhabitants are reported "defective in mind." No financier should be in "Short," Tex. "Accident" is not a railroad town, though it is in Garrett county, Maryland.

The ignorance of some of the enumerators in regard to physical conditions produced some queer results. Here are some verbatim specimens: "Crippled in side, borned so;" "crippled in right leg and mind;" "don't know what—had it for 20 or more years;" "right weak in the back;" "eye half out;" "stuttering from birth;" "only one eye is out" (evidently thought the other should be); "left hip out of fix;" "right foot absent;" "lost one right eye" (that reads as if the sufferer had a whole pocketful of right eyes); "stutters in speech; "misplaced hip" (it should be hunted up); "deformed in spinal cord;" "eye lost" (just as if it should be advertised for); "cramps;" "mute, speech defective;" "lost sight of two eyes" (just as if there was a bona fide "four eyed" party), and a bad case reported by the sufferer himself as "chronic rheumatism, left leg, broken and not well."

A Nashville enumerator reported all pulmonary cases as "chronic consumption," but he evidently has mistaken faith in the possible cure of that dread disease. A doubting Pennsylvania enumerator reported one case, "claims to be crippled," and a decidedly ungallant one (to say the least) at Lowell, Mass., tells of a young lady as "deformed; bow legs, bad."

Not the least amusing of the census humors is the number of namesakes of great statesmen and others long gone over to the "silent majority," and these are by no means confined to the Southern negroes, who assumed names at choice after the emancipation.

One day a census clerk turned to his neighbor, remarking: "I thought Andrew Johnson was dead, but here he is a census enumerator in east Tennessee."

"That's nothing," was the reply. "I found George Washington a little while ago, and I had heard he was dead. He lives in Westmoreland county, Virginia, is blind in one eye, and has chronic rheumatism."

Andrew Jackson lives in Iowa; John Quincy Adams, at Creek Center, N. Y.; Zachary Taylor, at Hearne, Texas; Thomas Jefferson, Stafford county, Virginia; Daniel Webster, Beaufort, S. C.; John C. Calhoun, in West Virginia; Charles Summer, in Mississippi and Georgia—both rheumatic, and Henry Clay suffers with rheumatism in Jessamine county, Ky. One of the clerks said Clay was a ghost, for he saw his funeral here, and ghosts can not have rheumatism, because they don't have anything to have it in.

An enumerator in a Western city wrote a confidential letter to Superintendent Porter telling of one experience he had.

"'Have you disease or disability?' I asked him," writes the enumerator.

"'Yes,' said he, 'my sight is bad; I was wounded in the left arm once, in the left side once, and once in the right knee, in the army; I have chronic rheumatism all the time; I am subject to neuralgic pains in my ears and jaw, and my lung is affected.'

"'Good gracious!' I asked him, 'anything else?'

"He said there was nothing more he could think of then, but his wife spoke up and said he had 'total depravity, and had it bad,' and she insisted that I put it down, too."

THE STARS IN INDIA.

What the Natives Think of Venus, the Sun, and Others.

Mrs. King, an English lady in India, was talking with some of the natives one evening about the stars. Venus was just rising, and they said that was Sukkar and that he would not let any more rain fall. I reminded them, she relates, that he was looking over the mountain lately, when that fearful three days' rain fell. Yes, they said, when first he comes there is heavy rain, and after that he puts a stop to it. The planet in the west is his brother, and one of them is always in attendance on the sun, not always the same, but turn and turn about.

They say there are 12 suns, brothers, who shine each for a month. I asked how they knew the suns were not the same, as they looked so much alike.

They said it was easy to know they were not the same. "Some are the elder brothers, and much stronger than the others—so strong that they can kill men. But this month we have a young sun brother, and next month a still younger one, and then the two youngest, who are so weak that they can hardly even melt the snow."

I asked them what became of the sun brothers who were off duty. They said they supposed they were at their own home, but did not know where that might be.

As to the fixed stars, they did not have any great opinion of them. They said their names were all written in the Brahmin's books, and some were bigger, some smaller; just like the sahibs, who were some generals, some judges, others captains, and small sahibs—and who could remember their names?

Some Clever Conundrums.

Why is a crow like a lawyer? He likes to have his caws heard.

What are the many wrinkles in a merchant's forehead? Trade marks.

What is the proper length of ladies' crinoline? A little above two feet.

Do you know the soldier's definition to a kiss? A report at headquarters.

Which travels fastest, heat or cold? Heat; because you can easily catch cold.

When is a man a muff? When he holds a lady's hand without squeezing it.

Why don't the American girl like the English dude? The Yankee dude'll do.

Why is a dead hen better than a live one? She will lay wherever you put her.

Why was Blackstone like an Irish vegetable? Because he was a common tatur.

Why don't they charge policemen on the horse cars? Because they can't get a nickel out of a copper.

What's the difference between a mouse and a young lady? One wishes to harm the cheese, the other to charm the he's.

What is the difference between homicide and pig sticking? One is assault with intent to kill, the other a kill with intent to salt.

Why are two young ladies kissing each other an emblem of Christianity? Because they are doing unto each other as they would men should do unto them.

Why are ladies so wicked? Because they not only bone their stays, and steel their petticoats, but they positively crib their babies, and hook each other's dresses.

The Qualifications Needed.

"You say you want a position on the staff of this paper? What experience have you had?"

"None at all. I want to get the experience here."

"Can you write short hand?"

"No."

"Edit telegraph matter?"

"Didn't know that it had to be edited."

"Ever try to write up a local happening for a newspaper?"

"Never did."

"Know anything about markets or finance?"

"No."

"Get any musical knowledge?"

"Not a bit."

"Good judge of a play?"

"No."

"Posted on politics?"

"Don't know anything at all about politics."

"Abrams," called out the managing editor to the city editor, "You've been trying for a long time to get a suitable person to edit the society department. Here he is."

ADMIRABLE FOOLING.

Weeks—Well, how are things over in Boston? Have they named any new pie "Aristotle" yet?

Wentman—No-o. But I heard a man there ask for a Plato soup.—[Christian Register.

Tommy—Mamma, can't you tell me a new fairy story? Mrs. Figg—I don't know any new ones, Tommy; maybe your father will tell you some when he comes in to-night.—[Indianapolis Journal.

Gay—I feel like a new man to-day.

Bright—Do you? Glad to hear it. Perhaps you can see your way clear to pay that little bill.

Gay—I'm a new man, I told you. You can't expect me to assume the liabilities of the old concern.—[Boston Transcript.

"Why don't you marry?" asked one Frenchman of another. "Because I must do it on certain conditions." "What conditions?" "Well, you know, the lady must be beautiful, rich, and a fool. If she isn't rich and beautiful, I won't take her, and if she isn't a fool, she won't take me!"

Butcher, who has been rejoiced by the birth of a son, is informed that the child weighs nearly eight pounds. He takes him in his arms to feel his weight and calls out astonished:

"By Jove, so he does!" Then after a moment's pause adds:

"But with the bones, mind you!"—[Fliegende Blatter.

Judge—You say your husband abuses you, Mrs. Murphy; how long have your relations been so unpleasant?

Mrs. Murphy—Yer honor, if Pat Murphy's ben a tellin' ye that my relations wahn't pleasant he's been a lyin' to ye?

Judge—Patrick Murphy is discharged!—[New York Herald.

Now that you are ruined, Henry, I will disclose my secret. For years I have been saving up, and now—pouring a shining heap of gold into his hat—this may tide you over." "Oh, my darling wife!" exclaimed the husband, "how did you manage to do it?" "Easy enough. Every time you said a mean thing to me I put 10 cents into a box."

Barmann, the lion tamer, came home one night rather the worse for drink, and was soundly rated by his better half. His unruffled composure on this occasion incensed her all the more, and Barmann at length took refuge in the lion's cage, bolting the door after him. Wife (at the door of the cage, armed with a broomstick)—Come out of that, you coward!

"Do you think, my love, that your father will consent to our marriage?" asked the ardent lover. "Of course papa will be very sorry to lose me, darling." "But I will say to him that instead of losing a daughter, he will gain a son." "I would not do that, love," said Angel, "if you really want me. Papa has three such sons staying here now, and he's a little touchy on the point."

A deaf old lady riding in an electric car became much alarmed because of a blockade, and asked a young woman next to her what had happened.

"There is no danger," replied the young woman. "Remember that a kind heaven bends over all."

The old lady turned to her companion, and inquired in a vexed tone: "Mary Ellen, what's that young woman saying to me about men's overalls?"—[Cincinnati Enquirer.

A man who, while traveling in a parlor car, fell asleep and snored with such intense volume that every one in the coach was seriously annoyed. Presently an old gentleman approached the sleeper and, shaking him, brought him out of his slumber with a start. "What's the matter?" he cried. "Why, your snoring is annoying every one in the car," replied the old gentleman kindly. "How do you know I'm snoring?" queried the source of the nuisance. "Why, we can't help hearing you." "Well, don't believe all you hear," replied the stranger, and went to sleep again.

Edgely—Hello, old man; I hear that you are married. Wasn't it rather sudden?

Wooden—Well, yes, a bit sudden, perhaps.

Edgely—How did it happen?

Wooden—Well, you see, it was this way. I was calling on Miss Simcon, of Chicago, and she said: "Do you think, Mr. Wooden, that marriage is always a failure?" "Why, no," said I, "not always. I can imagine a case where it would undoubtedly be a success." At this she leaped up, threw her arms around my neck, and said: "This is very sudden, but you have made me the happiest of women. Let next Tuesday be the day."—[Boston Courier.

CANADAS PR POSITION.

THE RENEWAL OF THE RECIPROCITY TREATY OF 1854

OTTAWA Ont., Feb. 5.—The precise nature of the offer of the Canadia Government for treaty negotiations with the United States has been made public. Following are the propositions:

First—Renewal of the reciprocity treaty of 1854, with modifications required by the altered circumstances of both countries and with the extensions deemed by the commission to be in the interests of Canada and the United States.

Second—A reconsideration of the treaty with respect to the Atlantic fisheries, with the aim of securing free admission into the United States markets of Canada fishery products in return for facilities to be granted to the fishermen to buy bait supplies and to tranship cargoes in Canada. All such privileges to be mutual.

Third—The protection of mackerel and other fisheries in the Atlantic ocean and inland waters.

Fourth—Relaxation of seaboard coasting laws of the two countries.

Fifth—Relaxation of the coasting laws of the two countries on inland waters dividing Canada from the United States.

Sixth—The mutual salvage and saving of wrecked vessels.

Seventh—Arrangements settling the boundary between Canada and Alaska.

MEASURES FOR MINERS.

IF THEY PASS THE MEN WILL BE WELL PROVIDED FOR.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 5.—The bill of Mr. Davis, of Luzerne, to levy a tax of one cent a ton on each ton of coal mined in the anthracite region, the fund so raised to be for the relief of persons injured, maimed and killed in mines, was amended on a second reading by striking out the word anthracite, thereby making the bill general in its character.

A little figuring on the statistics of Pennsylvania coal production will show that the bill would raise a fund of a million dollars a year. It would cost the Monongahela Valley about a quarter of a million dollars a year. Each barge of coal leaving Pittsburg would be taxed $25 or $30. No one said a word against the bill.

The employers' liability law will probably be amended to make it effective, both in the supplying of a penalty clause and in the defining of the term co-employe. In the event of these bills becoming laws the miners will be cared for.

The bill against company stores that passed a second reading to-day provides for the forfeit of the charters of mining or manufacturing corporations who run them.

PENNSYLVANIA MILITIA.

INTERESTING STATISTICS FOR THE BOYS WHO WEAR THE BLUE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Secretary of War has made a report to Congress of the organized militia in the United States, according to returns received at the Adjutant General's office in 1890. The report from Pennsylvania shows the following: Number of generals and general's staffs, 4; number on regimental staff, cavalry, 5, artillery, 5, infantry, 147; number of company commanders, cavalry, 9, artillery, 12, infantry, 374; number of non-commissioned officers on staff duty, 109; number of private enlisted men, cavalry, 163, artilery, 219, infantry, 7,365; total, 7,747. The aggregate of the militia shows 145 on general's staff, 177 in cavalry service, 236 in artillery, and 7,886 in infantry service, making a total of 7,444 active militiamen in the State. The number of available men in the State for military duty not organized is 692,194.

New York has a militia of 13,710, and has 650,000 men available for military duty. Ohio has a militia of 5,110, and Maryland one of 2,036. West Virginia has only 748 Sunday soldiers.

All this talk of a new Bellefonte seems to impress the editor of the Lock Haven Democrat with its fitness. He remarks in a late issue of that paper that he thought Bellefonte was about worn out. It is not so you old Furey, you always did try to turn the sublime into the rediculous. Bellefonte is only renewing its youth. We can liken it to a magnificient rosebush, of the choicest variety, ever blooming, fresh and hardy. It may at times present rather a dead appearance, caused by the chilling winds of adversity, but in the spring time you will see her, she will shake off the withered leaves of idle industry, which have hung upon her branches but a short time, and new life and energy will shoot forth from the very roots, which will cause new industries to bloom as well as the old to revive. Then our rose bush will be in full bloom—delightful to behold—and the fragrance of which will penetrate even to the borders of Lock Haven, and you, editor Joe, will just long to pull your feet out of the mire of your old town to come up into our Eden by by the beautiful fountain.

The young man who stammers need not feel any hesitation about popping the question. He can rest assured of the fact that his lady-love will consider it linked sweetness long drawn out.

It has been commented upon that the steam heat has not given as good satisfaction this winter as it did the first winter it was introduced in Bellefonte. Some seem to think that it is because Mr. Chase and his workmen then did superior work, as those who had the steam heat introduced at that time have had less trouble than those who have had it put in since.

At the Presbyterian church in the evening, Rev. Laurie took for the subject of his discourse the 2nd chapter of Revelations, the 4th verse "Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love." The sermon was a very fitting one and showed careful study. The selections by the choir are unusually fine. The opening piece especially deserves much praise for the enjoyment it gave the congregation.

It is almost time to elect new school directors, and as the material for such offices is always drawn from among the masculine element, why not for a change elect one or two female directors. There are ladies among us eminently fitted for such a position, and the keen interest they would take in all school matters would prove them valuable assistants to those already serving the directorship.

Some of the ladies have anticipated another "high tea" to be given in the near future.

The small boy is already purchasing the penny Valentine.

The missionary meeting of the Presbyterian society will be held at the chapel, Friday evening.

The lagrippe seems to have a grudge against famous people. Its last victim is the bright and famous singer, Adelina Patti, who is said to be in quite a critical condition.

Something new in receptions was given by a Philadelphia gentleman, and recently called an "Evening Smoke." All were furnished with cigars. The supper was German and consisted of liquid refreshments. Nothing very brilliant about such an affair, as it began and ended in smoke.

There is some talk of a Woman's Social Club being established among some of the leading ladies of our town. The membership of which is to be restricted to 12. Club dinners will then be the order of the day. Just think how nice it will sound, and how important she will feel as she buttons her sealskin up about her neck and remarks to her liege lord, "I am going to the club to-night," provided he has not already gone to his.

Secretary Blaine has a long head. He knows that if he keeps up a long fight for the seal fisheries all the women in the country will be on his side. Ex.

Well if all the women in the country get on to his side he will have a flat body as well as a level head. This would be a novel way of suicide. Poor Blaine we pity him.

GOOD TAX COLLECTOR.

From the statement of the borough tax collector, Mr. S. D. Ray, as published in another column of this paper, as well as from the auditor's statement, it will be seen that up to date, just six months from the time the duplicate of 1890 was put into the hands of Mr. Ray, he has collected and paid over to the proper authorities almost $34,000 in taxes. As the entire borough duplicate is not quite $40,000, there remains only about $6,000 to collect. The collections up to date show a marked increase over that of any previous year in the same length of time. And then considering all the circumstances, that times have been very dull around Bellefonte, and money tight, it must be admitted by all that Mr. Ray, as a tax collector, has been wonderfully successful. Knowing this, the people of Bellefonte can do no better than re-elect Mr. Ray at the coming election. It is to the benefit of every voter and tax payer so to do, and it is believed that every intelligent man is now alive and willing to always work to his best interests.

Rain and Snow.

Wasn't Saturday a delightful day? At dawn it was mild and pleasant; about nine o'clock it commenced to rain, later it was snow and rain and by evening there was about two inches of the worst slush and water that has been this winter. Another confirmation of the groundhog's sagacity. By the way, have you noticed that there has been either rain or snow every Saturday for the last six weeks? Such is said to be the case by a man who has taken particular notice of the fact.

MANY years practice have given C. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of Patents, at Washington, D. C., unsurpassed success in obtaining patents for all classes of inventions. They make a specialty of rejected cases, and have secured the allowance of many patents that had been previously rejected. Their advertisement in another column will be of interest to inventors, patentees, manufacturers and all those who have anything to do with patents.

BOGGS TOWNSHIP LETTER.

The "Last Wag of the Hammer," Personal Items, etc.

How frequently events, acts and scenes silently reply to one just as though in response to a question, assuming in their inanimate configuration that the question is, peradventure, a previous one, and simply a thought. It was "the last wag of the hammer" in Curtin's forge on last Wednesday, and to those few men who were standing there was a silence speaking as eloquently as though in words. For all they knew it was "the last wag of the hammer" there. They had fulfilled the letter of the familiar homily and could not fail in the realization to see the origin. "The last wag of the hammer!" Where else could the saying have found birth if not where the mighty trip hammer has fallen for the last time? Heard there ever since the beginning of the present century, the silence of the great forge hammer is sadly ominous. What a meaning in the silence for such fine old artesans as William Bathurst, Sr., William White and George Funk, Sr., the contemporaries and perhaps the schoolmates of ex-Governor Curtin, whose father, Roland Curtin, Sr., built the old Eagle Forge! What does it say to such men, who for fifty years and more have worked the ravel side by side at their forge-fires; who now, perhaps, have sunk their last loop and shingled their last bloom under the hammer whose mighty thundering noise has for so many years fed their thoughts with what to their industrious ears was music and peace; yes, and clothed them as well. The origin of the saying granted, the same becomes a proposition to be resolved in another form: Will it be "the last wag of the hammer" in the Eagle Forge? Only the future can determine.

For some weeks past a successful religious revival has been going on at the Pleasant Hill Evangelical Church, situate a few steps east of Mr. H. L. Barnhart's handsome residence. The work of this little body of the "faithful" has been highly commendable for years past.

Miss Nina Walker teaches the West Side school, near Col. James A. Weaver's residence She is quite young, but this is the second winter she has taught the same school.

Mr. Joseph Funk owns one of the neatest and latest improved houses in this township. Joe is often at home and delights to have his friends come in to have a talk.

John S. Zimmerman, the famous snare drummer, is at last getting there as a farmer. He has a two mule team and puts out big crops.

The Misses Zimmerman, daughters of Mr. James Zimmerman, are all engaged in educational work and are regarded as ladies of culture.

The Misses Shope, of Holt's Hollow, are young ladies of strikingly prepossessing appearance.

Will Brooks is still a bachelor.

SOLON.

An Appeal for Aid.

A WORTHY SOCIETY MAKES A NOBLE APPEAL FOR HELP FOR THE NEEDY.

EDITOR DAILY NEWS:

In justice to the contributors to the "Aid Society," as well as the needy—the deserving poor— I feel that persons should be warned against giving to applicants for aid, without first inquiring into their cases; as these same applicants, in several cases, are, and have been, supplied by the Society and are regular in their attendance on every distribution day.

The Society tries to distribute as nearly equal as possible and always considers the size and number of the family, careful inquiry being made, as far as possible, into the needs and worthiness of the applicants.

It is impossible, however, not to make mistakes, and over these let the mantle of charity be thrown, for we are doing the best we can with the very limited contributions of money and clothing we have thus far received. Had it not been for the generous donations of a Philadelphia Society to one of our members, many around us would be suffering this cold weather for warm, suitable underclothing.

We have refrained from making a public appeal for help but we are now compelled to do so or close our doors. That there is poverty and need all must know—as it is now about three months since one of our largest furnaces has been closed, and recently the other has shut down; while the nail works, though running now, employ only a limited number of their men, and were closed for two months. Many of these families are really destitute for shoes and clothing. The women and children need warm shirts and under wear, as many of them are clothed in what we would consider insufficient for even summer wear, while their feet have the merest apologies for shoes to protect them.

Now we do appeal to the generous public for aid, in money, provisions and clothing. Let us not shut up our hearts against the cries of the poor, because many of them are undesrving. "If the Lord was strict to mark our iniquities" where would any of us stand? Clothing can be sent to the W. C. T. U., rooms, Crider's Exchange, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons; or, if not convenient on these days, if left at Mr. Jared Harper's store it will reach us. Donations of money sent to the President, Mrs. M. H. Wilson, will be greatfully received and promptly acknowledged.

Bushels of Old Deeds, Etc.

How careless some people are in the matter of taking proper care of important papers, records, etc. A visit to the Recorder's office in this place would attest the truth of the above. Hundreds of these important papers—important only to the owner—are packed away in pigeon holes, lettered from A. to Z. There are probably several bushels of documents there that belong to parties throughout Centre and adjoining counties. They include, deeds, mortgages, releases, and various kinds of legal papers. There are papers there bearing date as far back as 1851, and some on which the writing has grown so faded as to be hardly legible. Just why it is that some people are so careless it is hard to imagine but the fact that they are so remains undisputed. It would no doubt be a fact greatly appreciated by the recorder if persons who know they have deeds there would call and get them, for should they be destroyed by fire there would be no way to replace them.

Encampment Meeting.

Encampment No. 59 Union Veteran Legion holds its next regular assembly on Wednesday evening next, Feb. 11th, at 7.30 p. m. As No. 59 is increasing in membership very rapidly (it being the only organization of its character in Centre county) it is urgently requested that members living in town and near vicinity be regular in their attendance, as the peculiarity of the work while mustering comrades, (reminding one of old army days,) requires a liberal number of comrades to add to its impressiveness.

Well Known.

There is probable no business house in Western Penn'a so well known to the public in this and adjoining states as the one we are about to speak of. Well known for square and honest dealing, well known for keeping the largest and most complete stock in his line, well known for prompt shipping and safe delivery either by freight or express. We refer to the establishment of Max Klein, the wholesale liquor dealer of 82 Federal street, Allegheny, Pa. His arrangements with the different Mountain Distillers of Penn'a for their entire production, and his con ract with foreign houses for direct importations, together with the experience of many years, makes him the leader in his line. His own "Silver Age Rye," sold now in every first-class place at $1 50 per quart, has no rival. His six year old Penn'a Ryes at $1.00 each, or six qu rts for $5.00, are the finest goods offered. Send for his price list, acquaint yourself with his manner of doing business, and you will always send for any stimulant you want to

AN EXCELLENT CHANCE.

A Holland Syndicate Wants to Spend Money in Central Pennsylvania.

The following card has been received at this office:

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Feb. 6, '91.

Colonel David VanDergan, of Jamaica, Long Island, N. Y., has just returned from Amsterdam, Europe. He represents a syndicate of Holland capitalists who will purchase mills, factories, timber tracts and iron fields in Central Penn-ylvania.

Why not invite Mr. VanDergan to come to Bellefonte? He could not find a better locality than just this in which to invest his money. Of iron fields there is no end. Mills, factories and furnaces all are here, while the coal fields and timber land are not far distant. Certainly there is no other place in the State where such wealth in the desi-ed possessions is to be found. If the people of Bellefonte desire to revive the town let them take advantage of every opportunity offered.

Will Move to Philadelphia.

We have been informed by a friend of the family that General D. H. Hastings will move to Philadelphia on or about the 1st of April. This is rendered almost necessary from the fact that the bulk of the General's business is now in that city, which requires his almost constant presence there, and he deems it more pleasant to have his family with him. There is not the least doubt but that everybody in Bellefonte will regret to hear of their intended departure. It is also to be hoped that the General may reconsider his determination and continue to reside in Bellefonte.

Cancerous Eczema.

For many years I have been sorely afflicted with Eczema on my face. The eruption was in large splotches, and Cancerous nature. I had treatment from a number of ex, erienced physicians, with little or no benefit, and only of a temporary nature. After other treatments had failed I bought seven bottles of S. S. S. from Messrs. Tennille & Holland, of Troy, Ala., and it cured me. I feel like a new man, my painful troubles and apprehension is all gone, and now at sixty years of age I am once more restored to health, and it is due entirely to S. S. S. My post-office is Orion, Pike county, Ala.

Prof. Patton at State College.

The reception given to the Professor at the State College was simply grand. The courtesy of the Faculty in granting the use of the chapel is certainly not without appreciation, while the attendance of so many connected with the institution and the surrounding vicinity, goes far to give expression to the fact, that they were willing to hear before deciding, and then deciding for the right. Mr. Patton felt perfectly at home; and in a pathetic and scholarly, yet forcible manner, delivered his lecture which for clearness and style far exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine; it was well received and with good effect.

Realistic Army Life.

Dr. George L. Potter Post, No. 261, of Milesburg will, on Friday and Saturday evenings, present in Boggs' Hall "Realistic Scenes and incidents of a soldier's life." The entertainment will be given by members of the post for the benefit of the Relief Fund, and promises to be very interesting. It will consist of a representation of a soldier's life from the time he joins the army in 1861, to the close of the great struggle in 1865. The real, the pathetic, the humorous, and every phase of a soldier's life will be faithfully and accurately depicted by true and original scenes enacted on the stage by the veterans who have gone through it all. A number of years ago this same Post gave a similar entertainment and it was so enjoyed at that time there has been a constant demand for another presentation, to which demand the Post finally concluded to favor the public again. This time, however, new scenes and incidents will be introduced and the entertainment will be doubly interesting. The price of admission is very reasonable and there should be a crowded house every night.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. J. C. Weaver was off on a business trip to Lock Haven Tuesday.

"Pap" Griest comes to Bellefonte frequently of late. Wonder if it is to give the new county officials lessons in economy.

Oscar Meyers, of Milesburg, departed for Reedsville, Pa., where he goes to accept a position as millwright.

Reuben Smith, who has been employed at Johnstown during the past year, is spending a two week's vacation at his home in Milesburg.

Dr Koch's Consumption Cure!

The New Discovery Ventilated!

Dr. Alfred Heath, of London, one of the Most Celebrated Physicians of England, of the New School, lets the Light in upon the Following:

[Special correspondence DAILY NEWS.]

"The few remarks that I have to make concerning this cure for consumption, respecting which all Europe and the world is in a state of the greatest excitement, may be of interest. First, as to what the remedy is. The daily papers tell us that it is a tax albumen or a Ptomaine. Ptomaines are a class of bodies, probably alkaloids, possessing highly poisonous properties, which are found in the presence of the lower forms of organic life, such as bacteria, micrococci, etc.

Dr. Koch's remedy, we are told by the papers, is a ptomaine, and is said to be made from a product of consumption in which the bacillus tuberculosis is formal. "Shade of Hahnemann!" Tuberculosis and other kindred diseases cured by a preparation made from a product of the disease itself, and this recommended by an allopath! But "truth is great and it will prevail." What will the Lancet say, the editor of which journal, fifteen years ago, poured out the "vials of his wrath" against homœapaths for using as a medicine a preparation made as Dr. Koch's is, from the diseased lung. But how harmless the homœapathic way of administering the remedy as compared with this plan of inoculation! What will the allopathic societies say to this? It is said that this preparation will only act in the presence of tubercular disease, and that it is harmless in healhty people. Under homœopathic treatment this is usually the case with infinitesimal doses, but they are sufficient in the presence of disease, because the remedy has an affinity for the diseased part being in a hypersensitive condition. Further Dr Koch says his remedy will not act if taken into the stomach. The same thing has been said about snake poisons; they are poisons if introduced under the skin, as also is this remedy of Dr. Koch, in larger quantities; but potentized and given as we do the poisons of the lachesis and crotalus, they are active and useful medicines. Even Mr. Martendale, one of the examiners of the Pharmaceutical Society, in his Extra Pharmacopoeia, mentions dilutions of crotalus as good for malignant scarlet fever, strength, one to a thousand; dose, 3 drops. It would be extraordinary if a remedy capable of having such marvelous power as to cure phthisis by inoculation should be harmless if injected into the healthy body, and I, for one, do not believe it, although the harm may not be apparent for years.

In homeopathy we have had, as I have said, for many years an identical preparation in so far as that it is made from a product of phthisis and containing all the elements from whibh Dr. Koch's preparation is said to be prepared. About five or six years ago I made myself a preparation from this substance, and I successfully treated a case of tubercular meningitis with it, which was cured within a week after taking the remedy. Nothing else was given, showing that the remedy will act when given internally. I prepared it in a high dilution and gave it as a medicine in the usual way. The name under which it is known in homeopathy is tuberculernum and bacillinum. Dr. Burnett has many times used this preparation of mine with marvellous results in the earlier stages of phthisis and in the associated fever when everything else had failed to relieve. This goes to show that it acts quite as well when diluted and used as a medicine as when injected into the blood. Probably it will act better in this way, and more gradually, so that the effete particles can be more easily gotten rid of. Dr. Koch says that the diseased tissue is destroyed by his plan, and that in some cases it will need surgical aid to remove the dead tissue. This operation may be more serious than the disease, if it is a matter of surgical operation on the lung. It seems strange that a remedy that has been used by us for nearly twenty years in the treatment of certain cases of phthisis should suddenly be brought forward as a cure for consumption by inoculation.

In 1833, fifty-seven years ago, the late Dr. C. Hering, of America, introduced the saliva of the mad dog as a cure (when potentized) for hydrophobia, but no notice of it was taken by the world at large until M. Pasteur recommended its use by inoculation. It's just the same with this cure for consumption. Its first introduction and the homœopathicity of the cure is entirely overlooked.

It is contended by many and no doubt it is perfectly true that children who are vaccinated with lymph taken from those who have consumptive tendencies or other constitutional diseases, will inherit or acquire those particular diseases through the medium of the lymph, hence the spread of phthisis from vaccination, also the spead of leprosy from vaccination. If Dr. Koch's remedy is made from a product of tuberculasis, and it is injected into the blood, what is there to prevent a like trouble in people who have already acquired phthisis. Surely the plan of potentizing the remedy and giving it as a medicine would be the safest. There are also other conditions associated with the leading up to consumption besides the actual tubercle. These would have to be removed before one could be said to be cured; therefore, simple treatment by vaccination may not be lasting. Dr. Koch's statement that this remedy does not kill the bacillur, but only destroys the living tuberculous tissue, removes it from the list of direct bacillicides; this being so, I take it the remedy must act against a constitutional condition; which favors the grawble and living of the bacilli. Until this bacillus theory came to be believed in, tuberculasis not said to be a purely constitutional disease, and homoeopathes and allopathes still teach this. The latest works on tuberculas phthisis give its cause as chiefly hereditary, closely associated with scrofula and struma; and although a person is born with this constitutional condition, the disease-phthisis, often does not come on until the person attains the age of thirty, forty or fifty years. Where, I ask, is the bacillus all this time, if the bacillus is the cause? Then consumption is not a constitutional or inherited disease; therefore, I think I am justified in saying the bacillus is only an effect of a disordered condition, and we must go much deeper for its cause and absolute removal.

Some months since, a friend of mine put a beautifully healthy and strong acamite plant in full flower into water to prevent its drooping, and it remained in the water about a week, and a thick, stringy, starchy substance was adherent to it, evidently coming from the root, which was under water. On placing some of this substance, the result of decomposition, under the microscope i was found to be swarming with bacilli or a low form of animal life. Where, I ask, did this animal life come from? It was not in the plant when put in, and it was not in the water in which the root was. The bacillus tuberculosis may be an absolute sign that consumption is present, but it is not the cause. If Dr. Koch finds a remedy that will cure the constitutional disposition to consumption, we need not trouble ourselves about the bacillus.

Before consumption develops, we have many premonitory conditions malunrtrication acting in the constitutional predisposition, increasing dyspepsia, one of the chief. Supposing the bacillus is got rid of, and the diseased lung tissue also, by any other than constitutional treatment, we shall still have to remove those first causes, or they will be quite sufficient to bring in the disease again. It is probable that Dr Koch's remedy will do good in many cases, but certainly not in all, and experience has shown us that the remedy will be better and safer when potentized and used as a medicine, instead of the blood being poisoned with it.

FIVE MEN FIRED UPON.

BOLD ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE NEW MEXICO COUNCILMEN.

SANTE FE, N. M., Feb. 7.—Last evening at 9 o'clock while five Republican members of the City Council were holding a consultation in the office of T. B. Catron two men rode up to the window, which is on one side of the principal street of the city, and fired two shots at the men inside, seriously wounding J. A. Arohulta, Councilman from counties of Grant, Don Anna and Sierre, and narrowly missing T. B. Catron, Councilman from Santa Fe county, and Stover and Perea, Councilman from Bernalillo county. The shots fired were from a shotgun and Winchester rifle. Archuta was hit five times by buckshot in the back of the head and neck. The rifle shot was too high and passed over Catron's and Stover's head. The assassins turned and rode up the street out of town. The night was dark and the roads muddy, but they were tracked some seven miles out, going toward Canoncieto by a posse headed by District-Attorney Twichell and Deputy United States Marshal Romero. The attempt at assassination is believed to be a political motive and aimed at T. B. Catron, one of the most prominent Republicans of the Territory. Archulta is at the hospital resting easy, and it is thought will recover. The Legislative Assem- this morning appropriated $10,000 for the detection, arrest and conviction of the two men who attempted the assassination. Gov. Prince has issued his proclamation offering a reward of $5,000 in the case of each of the two men. No clue as yet to their indentity.

WATCHING FOR LIFE.

One Week Dead and Her Family Don't Believe It.

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 7—This town is thoroughly aroused over the tragic death of Miss Helen Potts, the daughter of Railroad Conductor George H. Potts, who died at the Comstock fashionable boarding-school in New York City on Sunday last. Few people here believe the girl died from the effect of the pills taken, which were prescribed for her by Medical Student Carlyle W. Harris, and are anxious that an autopsy be held.

It is reported that the remains of Miss Potts were not buried, although the grave had been prepared for them, but the body was placed in a vault. This was done under instructions from Coroner Schultz, of New York, who had charge of the case. He is said to have telegraphed Mr. Potts not to bury the body, and accordingly had it placed in a vault on Wednesday last.

Mr. Potts is almost distracted with grief and refuses to believe that his daughter is dead. He has ordered that the casket be left open, and has placed a guard of two men over it whose duty it is to hourly inspect the remains, so that if the girl should awaken her life would be saved. Developments from New York in the matter are anxiously awaited.

TABLE TALK for February contains a dainty list of contents. A regular reader of this practical magazine would suppose each number would exhaust the practical topics that interest the progressive housewife Not so, however, for the February number contains more than any preceding issue, of questions from the perplexed horsewives, and answers by the editor, Mrs. S. T. Rorer, who gives a "Menu for an Evening Wedding," "Menu for Six O'clock Dinner," "Bouillon for Teas, Receptions, etc." "A list of necessary Kitchen Utensils," "Cheese Straws." These scarcely give a hint of the practical topics you will find in this excellent number. Send 10 cents for it, or, better still, send $1.00 to Table Talk Publishing Co., Philadelphia, and have it sent to you for a year, and you will thank us for the suggestion.

A FOOLISH RUMOR.

EXPLODED ALMOST AS SOON AS ORIGINATED.

NOT TRUE THAT GENERAL HASTINGS WAS SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS AS ADJUTANT GENERAL.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 10.—Regarding the report that there is a large deficiency in the Adjutant General's department from the last administration, Adjutant General McClelland said to-night:

"This office is in no manner responsible for it. As to any unpaid bills, the amount of them cannot be determined, as they are not all in and will not be until after the end of the current year, April 13. There is nothing that in any way reflects upon General Hastings, and the talk I have heard is very annoying to me in view of the courtesies shown me by General Hastings before and since I took charge of the office."

General Hastings arrived from Bellefonte this evening and at once went to the Adjutant General's office. In a conference with Governor Pattison and Adjutant General McClelland he made a statement of the Adjutant General's department and completely vindicated himself of any suspicion of maladministration of the department. In fact he showed by indisputable proof that his administration has been effective and business like.

When General Hastings took charge of the office he found a deficiency of $36,434,49 as a legacy from his predecessor. This deficiency had been accumulating from one administration to another, not by reason of any loose methods or extra expenditures, but because the appropriations for the National Guard were not sufficient for its maintenance. General Hastings was not disposed to accept the legacy, but like his predecessor, he did so and carried it along during his term. Meanwhile he paid his own debts from his appropriation including some extraordinary expenses and reduced the floating debt $7,159,81, leaving a deficiency on his retirement of $23,278,46. These facts were laid before Governor Pattison and it was decided to-night to ask the legislature to grant an appropriation to cover the amount of the deficiency, so that General McClelland can begin his administration with clean sheets.

Hence the imperative necessity for a reliable blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which eradicates every impurity, and gives the blood vitality and health. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, humors, boils, pimples and all other affections caused by impurities or poisonous germs in the blood All that is asked for Hood's Sarsaparilla is that it be given a fair trial.

LATEST FBOM THE JEANSVILLE HORROR.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., February 5.—All was quiet at the fatal No. 1 slope, in Jeanesville, to-day, where 17 men were drowned yesterday. There were fewer idle men and women standing around the mouth of the slope, where the two massive Bull pumps are doing the work of pumping away and slowly hoisting water which was being lowered in depth every hour.

Superintendent McFarland remained at the slope all last night and to-day, aiding and pushing the work as fast as possible, but the water has been lowered only fifteen inches up to noon to-day.

The Coroner of Carbon county appeared on the ground this afternoon, though an inquest cannot be held until the first body is recovered which may take some days. When this is once accomplished it will probably be shown who was responsible for the loss of seventeen unfortunates, who are, beyond question, all dead.

There are thirty-four orphans left by this dreadful accident and eight widows. It is alleged that the mining engineer, Mr. Womelsdorf, has not visited this slope or mine for some time past, relying mostly upon assistants, who are claimed to be young men whose reports have always been accepted as satisfactory.

At this writing—8 p. m.—it is impossible to tell when the bodies of the victims will be reached.

If You Had a Friend

About to visit some section of the country where malarial disease, either in the form of chills and fever or bilious remittent, was particularly rife, what would be about the best advice you could give him? We will tell you—to carry along, or procure on arriving, that potent medicinal safeguard, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, known throughout malaria plagued regions, here and in other countries, as the surest means of disarming the miasmatic scourge, and robbing it of its fell destructive influence. Not only does it fortify the system by increasing its stamina, but overcomes irregularity of digestion, the liver and the bowels, and counteracts the unfavorable effects of over exertion bodily and mental exposure in rough weather, or occupation too sedentary or laborious, loss of appetite and excessive nervousness. The functions of alimentation, bilious secretion and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary.

MOLLIE MAGUIRES REVIVED.

MINERS RECEIVE NOTICES THREATENING THEM WITH DEATH.

SHENANDOAH, PA., Feb. 5.—T. L. Evans, inside foreman of the Hammond colliery, and three of his miners, Alfred Kitto, Richard Stack, Sr. and Richard Stack, Jr., all residents of Girardville, a small town about five miles from this place, have received anonymous letters warning them to leave the county within fifteen days under penalty of death. The notes bear the skull and cross bones, a coffin and blood spots, and are written in tones similar to those of the letters distributed by the "Molly Maguires" in the seventies. Great excitement prevails. A few days ago ex-Postmaster Glick, of Girardville, received a similar notice.

WE have every reason to believe that Sheriff Ishler will make a good selection when he appoints his deputy, that is if he can make his own selection, but it is the determination of certain parties to compel Mr. Ishler to make an appointment to please them, that we have been commenting on. Without exception Sheriff Ishler is the most level headed of all the democrats now in office and his untrammeled selection would undoubtedly be a good one.

AN item is going the rounds of the State press in effect that County Commissioners will be paid traveling expenses now as in the past. The act of May 7, 1889, says they shall not, but an act passed six days later, or on May 13, 1889, reads thus:

"County Commissioners shall be allowed their traveling expenses necessarily incurred in the discharge of their official duties," and "so much of all general acts heretofore passed as are inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed."

In some counties the Commissioners demand and are being paid their mileage. Would it not be a good idea to give them the county duplicate for their services?

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all 8 bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at W. C. Keplinger & Co.'s, regular size 50cts. and $1.00.

IT would seem that about the best thing the majority in Congress can do will be to vote for a recess until the third day of March. The Republicans of the country would then have the satisfaction of knowing that even if nothing was accomplished, that legislation was not controlled by the minority, as it has been in the Senate at this session.

JAMES SCHOFIELD don't want to be Bellefonte poor overseer next year; he wants to be elected Councilman from the West Ward. "Jimmy" has an eye to business. There will be a reissue of eighty thousand dollars of borough bonds in 1892, and probably he thinks he could manipulate to get some of them.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease 'Comsumption,' is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing, will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILTON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

WE fail to see either the benefit or the necessity for the prominence which has been given the bill to guarantee the bonds of the Nicarauga Canal Company by the Senate Caucus Committee. The bill may be good enough, although of that we have our doubts, but there are many others in which the people are much more interested, and which should not have been pushed aside to make room for the Nicarauga bill.

IT is now being vigorously discussed whether it wouldn't be expedient, in the face of so many mine accidents, to have a law passed compelling all mines to be illuminated with electricity.

PURIFY THE BLOOD WITH Brown's Sarsaparilla

The mortality in large cities is due to the fact that bad food, bad air, and bad habits have made bad blood. From the largest bone down to the smallest hair, the whole body is fed, supplied with new material, kept alive and healthy by the flow of blood. In fact it is the most important part of the system.

Indeed, it is claimed there can be no disease, save an occasional brain trouble, when the blood is pure and flowing free.

Brown's Sarsaparilla purifies and enriches the blood and invigorates the entire system.

Cross Creek, Washington Co., Pa.

Alfred C. Stephenson, writes, "I think Brown's Sarsaparilla can not be equalled as a blood purifier.

Anna B. Crook of Stoneboro, Mercer Co., Pa., says, "I have used Brown's Sarsaparilla, and find it a great blood purifier.

THE ROAD BILL.

IT PROVIDES FOR A NEW SYSTEM OF SUPERVISORS.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 4.—The Road Commission will make its report to the Legislature to-day. It will have three bills, one the road bill itself, the other a bill making a State appropriation of a million dollars, and the other establishing the office of county engineer of roads. The State appropriation will be distributed among the townships in proportion to the amount they raise by local taxation. A county engineer of roads is to be elected in each county at $3.50 a day. Each township is to have three unsalaried supervisors who shall employ path masters, who shall be paid the same as laborers. Townships are also permitted to buy road machinery in partnership, and the means of dissolving partnership is therein provided.

The difficult point with the Commission has been the cash tax. The bill as framed provides for this, but modifies it with a provision that the farmers of each district who desire to work on the roads shall be given the preference in employment, but only persons of a certain age shall be so employed. Township Supervisors will be permitted to let contracts for road making and repairing for a term not exceeding two years. The bill does not in any way disturb turnpike companies, and, it is said, will not provide any special plan of road making, the surface of Pennsylvania being so diversified that regulation unsuitable in one part of the State would be suitable in another. The State appropriation and the manner of its distribution is expected to be sufficient incentive to making permanent roads.

FEMALE SPY'S SUICIDE.

SHE HAD MANY ADVENTURES AND FINALLY HANGED HERSELF.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Catharine McKnight hanged herself at No. 105 South Sangamon street yesterday morning, but not until this afternoon was it discovered that she was a famous Union spy during the war. She was married five times and led a most exciting life.

When but eighteen years old she eloped with her first husband, and when he joined the army at the opening of the rebellion she was adopted as the daughter of his regiment. He was captured while on a secret mission and confined in Libby Prison. She thereupon became a spy and spent much time within the Confederate lines.

She gained admission to him and changed clothes with him to aid his escape. He was captured, however, and she was sentenced to be shot. She escaped before the time set for her execution, but meantime her husband died. After the war she married four husbands, three of whom were notorious criminals. She was divorced from all four.

ROMANTIC ELOPEMENT.

A LOVE LORN COUPLE GO AWAY ON HORSEBACK.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 4.—Lawence Billby, the son of a rich farmer residing at Shickshinny, and Miss Lizzie Hartman, of the same place, eloped early Sunday morning under romantic circumstances. The young people were being watched by their parents. They wanted to marry, but the parents thought they were too young, both being under 19. At three o'clock Sunday morning young Billby escaped from his father's house, broke into the barn and took out a good saddle horse. He drove to the home of his sweetheart, some distance from his own home, and, giving a signal, the girl, who was waiting, appeared at the window.

A rope was made of the bedclothes, the window was raised and Miss Hartman glided down the bedclothes rope into the arms of her lover. Then away they went. Miss Hartman could ride a horse as good as Billby. No tidings of the runaway couple could be found. Billby's father notified the Chief of Police to-day that his horse was stolen from his barn. He says he will never forgive his son.

THE COUNTY FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The county financial statement is now out—being printed at the office of the Watchman. In typographical appearance it compares favorably with other statements issued in the past. As to the statement part of it, were one to judge from the figures appearing on the face of it, they would be forced to the conclusion that the last year's administration had not been a success financially, as the statement presents the county as being in debt $5,267.63. Of course it will be readily understood by all who have any knowledge of the situation that this statement was prepared by a Democratic Board of Auditors and a Democratic Board of Commissioners, who are jealous of the work done during the past three years, and that it has been done with an eye single to the future defeat of the Republican party that this statement has been so presented. Under the head of "liabilities" the Commissioners have estimated the "exonerations" at almost one thousand dollars more than they were last year. They gave as liabilities old bills that remain unpaid, which were obligated four or five years ago and were never counted in before. They give in full several large bills on which they have disputed and refused payment because they were entirely too large. They ransacked the Commissioners' office from corner to corner, and from ceiling to the cemented floor, and every bill and item that were seemingly unpaid, no matter if they remained over from neglect of the old Democratic Board, were slated and counted in as liabilities, and it was in this way that they succeeded in raising that item to a little over twenty-three thousand dollars. Then, on the othes hand, when it came to counting up the assets, everything that looked the least bit doubtful was thrown aside as N. G., and only gold edge stuff was counted in as assets. In this way they kept that item down to not quite eighteen thousand, leaving the impression that the county was in debt to that amount. Aside from this fact it must be admitted that this statement is not very creditable in other ways to the late Commissioners. Those three officials put in a greater number of days during the past year than was ever put in before. In addition to that, it will require a person of only ordinary intelligence to pick out a few favorites who were well feathered during the past year, There are a number of other minor inconsistencies, but they may pass so far as we are concerned.

St. Valentine's Day, the 14th.

We are sentimental after all. And in this hustling and hammering, realistic and rollicking, working and worrying old planetary existence a little sentiment is not hurtful. Rather it is helpful. It spices the morsels we gulp and nearly choke on, leavens the lump, romanticises the realities and makes life a bit sweeter. Fortunately the traditions of our fathers and our mothers help to foster this feeling of sentiment. The sentimental periods are not scattered through the months of the year quite so liberally as they might be, but the dose is allopathic and lingers. The sentimentality that expands during Christmastide covers a big page in the memory and cherishes the germ wonderfully. So when St. Valentine, Cupid & Co. resume at the old stand just under the shadow of the castle of christian charity and limitless love, they are bound to do a fine business. The great Sentiment which underlies life buds afresh and blooms on February 14 in all its splendor. And, too, in this sentimental period, we seem to see the flowers and hear the birds—the roses and the suns of spring are close and winter is waning. St. Valentine, too, takes you back to the pothooks and the posies—to the time when you ran to the little postoffice in the country store or waited anxiously for the postman's ring. In the hearts of the old the day dews the sentiment and it grows green. For the young it has the same meaning that it had for you and for I—more elaborate, perhaps, but the same for all that. For a Valentine is a Valentine, and Love is Love, whether on ink-colored paper, hand-painted satin, in a blouse or in broadcloth. And St. Valentine is in the shops now and will soon be in the mails. So sentiment will be nurtured, and eyes will sparkle, and hearts will beat, and Cupid will hold carnival. Now the seed of friendship will be sown, and with the coming of the buds and the birds will blossom love, the sweetest and best fruit growing on the tree of life, whose garden is the wide, wide world.

CHICANERY AND GRAB.

Talk about hungry politicians, hungry newspaper men, fair county officials, law-abiding officers, etc., and then investigate the first month of the administration of the new Democratic county officials, and therein will be found food for reflection for the next twelve months to come. Their cry is economy! economy!! This, if real, would be all right; but such economy as is now being practiced has never before been known in Centre county. We have already given a few instances of the false economy they are practising, but one of the greatest pieces of chicanery and grab that has yet been done is the way in which the printing of the county supplements is this year being done.

It has been the custom of every Board of County Commissioners for the past thirty years; it is an established precedent, if not the law, that the printing of the county statement must be given to the office within the county that would do it the cheapest. It has always been the case that bids for this work were asked of every printing office, and the one who would do it the cheapest got the job. But this year no letting was made of this work. Not even were bids asked of the several Democratic offices, but the copy of the work was bundled together and sent to the Watchman office with orders to print the required number of supplements. And not even was there a price set. It was simply take the work, do it, send in your bill and get your pay.

This is the same "grab game" that was worked years ago when the taxes were away up and one-third of what was collected went into the hands of the Democratic newspaper men. Will the taxpayers of Centre county coolly look on and allow this one man way of doing business prevail at this age of enlightenment?

And how is it with the county auditors? Will they pass upon the work of a Board of Commissioners that is given to party workers for political purposes, without regard to price or profit? Auditor Carr said on the Saturday that the Board completed their report that the work must be given out to the lowest bidder, or, as a board of auditors, they would not pass the bill for such work when they came to audit the report next January. Will Auditor Carr now be man enough to stand up to his assertions and thus show the present Board of Commissioners that they must go according to law and precedent and not adhere so closely to politics, party and boodle grabbers?

ASIDE from the personal likes and dislikes, and the manner in which it was brought about, it is perhaps just as well that the Federal Election bill has been to all intents and purposes abandoned as a party measure. While many Republicans have been of the opinion that it was now too late to do what ought to have been done years ago. It is not necessary for us to agree with these gentlemen or to disagree with them, but we have no hesitation in saying that as long as the Republican party could not be united in favor of this measure it was the best thing for the party interests to give it up. It should, however, have been given up willingly by action of the Republican caucus, and not forced out as it was by a combination of Republicans and Democrats. But it has been done in that way, and it is useless to cry over spilled milk, and those gentlemen engaged in promulgating decrees reading this or that Senator out of the party could be better engaged in something more useful to the party. If the Republican party is to elect a President next year it will certainly need all the votes it can get, and it cannot afford, even if it could be done, to drive away the support of the men who are opposed to the Federal Election bill.

THERE is one consolation in the present Congressional situation of affairs. The Democrats no longer have an excuse for making an extra session necessary.

IT isn't until you get a lovely cluster of boils on the back of your neck that you fully realize what a wonderful man Job was.

KILLED THE TEACHER.

A YOUNG WOMAN FATALLY BEATEN FOR WHIPPING A CHILD.

WINNEBAGO CITY, Minn., Feb. 3—Miss Lent, who was teaching a country school near this place, had occasion to punish a girl named Cruzen, which greatly enraged the girl's parents, who assaulted the teacher. Mr. Cruzen struck Miss Lent with a book and knocked her down. The mother then grabbed Miss Lent by the hair, which was hanging loose over her shoulders, and dragged her around the room until the cap of her skull was partially torn off. With the aid of her husband the wife took up the prostrate form of the teacher and threw it out of an open window, the head striking a stone, from which death has since resulted. Great indignation prevails. The Cruzens, father, mother and daughter, have been placed in jail.

WHENEVER a public man constantly receives "taffy" from the newspapers of the opposition party he would do well to ask himself "in what way am I injuring my party?" for unless he is in some way injuring his own party he would not be getting the aforesaid "taffy."

SOME people may "pooh hoo" at Irl Hicks' weather prophecies, and sometimes with good reasons, too; but then Irl hits it about as often, or a little oftener, than the majority of weather prophets do. And just now, for instance, it would be well for all our readers to take Mr. H.'s prognostications for February and paste them in their hats, for not only has he said that there will be very rough weather through all of February, but along comes Mr. Groundhog and backs up Hicks' assertions by looking at his shadow for fully five hours on Monday. Some people will be prone to laugh at Mr. Hicks and the other groundhog, but it is a fact that will be vouched for by scores of people that both are good weather predictors. Just what the groundhog seeing his shadow has to do with the weather is pretty hard to understand. As for Mr. Hicks, it is an easy matter to decipher his work. In the first place he goes entirely by the planets; in the second place he does a mighty lot of hard guessing, and in the third place he gives such a variety of weather during a month that some of it can't help but hit, and a man that's right half the time these days is always considered pretty level headed.

VACANT CABINET POSITION.

EX-GOVERNOR FOSTER, OF OHIO, SUGGESTED FOR THE POSITION.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 4—The Republican members of the Legislature have signed a communication to President Harrison, suggesting ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, as a proper person to be appointed as Secretary of the Treasury. The communication says:

"His distinguished ability as a financier, his record as a faithful and effective leader in the Republican party, and his conservative position on all public questions, which has won for him the respect of the entire country, would make his appointment a credit to your administration and bring upon it the universal approval of the Republican party."

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you good digestion and oust the demon Dyspepsia and install instead Eupepsy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle by W. C. Keplinger & Co's druggist.

L. A. SCHAEFFER, the new Democratic County Chairman, has gotten down to business, according to the party papers. Mr. Schæffer is the man who said he would run a model campaign, using neither boodle nor whisky to buy votes; neither would he influence by promises or fraud. Such a "model" chairman as that would hardly survive a campaign, if run on pure, unadulterated Democratic principles.

HE WON'T PAY FOR IT.

We want a new subscriber—who will send their name? We want one because Recorder Morrison on Thursday informed us that he would not pay for the paper left at that office. Reason: Because on Wednesday the DAILY NEWS published an item in effect that Recorder Morrison did not consider himself responsible for the deeds, mortgages, etc., in his possession after they were entered on record and had been kept a certain length of time; or such papers that passed into his hands from his predecessor. Mr. M. objects to having anything said about him for that reason ordered us to stop the NEWS as he would not pay for it. We have the satisfaction of saying to Mr. Morrison that, although Mr. Harter paid for the paper, we have not asked him to pay for it, therefore his refusal is a little previous, and as to stopping it that we will consider. If he don't like our style he need not read it.

As to his assertion of no responsibility, it only shows a narrowness inside his hat rim and discloses to the public at large that Mr. Morrison wants to ignore the one great implied trust of his office—a responsibility to take proper care of all papers, as well as records, in the custody and keeping of the County Recorder.

THE election of Dr. Gallinger to succeed Senator Blair was gratifying to the wage workers of the country. He made a reputation as a hustler several years ago in the House of Representatives as the special champion of the printers, for whom he naturally has a kind feeling, being a typo himself.

THE newspapers are growing entirely too enterprising. They will not let a man stay dead even when he wants to. They have re-urrected Ray Hamilton, whose body was recently found on the lonely banks of Snake river, and located him, under an assumed name, in Australia.

Another Mine Horror!

EIGHTEEN VICTIMS MEET THEIR DOOM IN THE WATER.

A Disaster which Follows on the Trail of the Mammoth Accident—Seven Men Very Narrowly Escape with Their Lives!

HAZLETON, Feb. 4.—At 11 o'clock this morning, when Charles Boyle and Patrick Coll, of Lewiston, were engaged in drilling a hole in their chamber, in the lower lift of the No. 1 slope of J. C. Hayden & Co., at Jeansville, they broke into the old No. 8 slope that has been idle for five years and has been flooded up to the mouth with water. William Brobin was driving at the bottom of the slope when he felt the wind coming and cried out:

"Boys, for God's sake run for your lives or you'll be drowned!"

In a moment the force of the water came and Brisbin barely escaped with his life. Besides him six others were saved. They are Henry Gibson, John Neems, John Boyle, Charles Boyle, William Coyle, door tender, and Patrick Coll. John Boyles, a laborer, was drowned. The water rose rapidly and before any attempt could be made to rescue the rest of the workmen it flowed in and in five minutes time the slope, which is 624 feet deep, was filled to the mouth and eighteen men, who, but a few hours before with light hearts left bright sunshine and clear sky to descend to the dark caverns of the coal mine, were buried in watery graves, and their lifeless bodies black, grimmed and maimed, are alone left to tell the terrible cost of mining coal.

Some of the miners say it will take four weeks before the bodies can be reached and others say twice as long. In the filling, said Brinslin, one of the rescued men, the water rose 208 yards to the mouth of the slope, the pitch of which is 83 degrees.

DEMAND FREE SILVER.

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE COUNCIL URGE THE PASSAGE OF THE PENDING BILL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—A committee of the Council of the National Farmers' Alliance to-day presented a report, with a resolution demanding the passage by the House of Representatives of the Senate Free Coinage Bill. The bill concludes: "We have waited many years for the simple justice of having both the precious metals restored to the free coinage and hereby declare our determination to press the fight on this line until this relief is accorded to the laboring and producing masses of our Nation, and to hold responsible the men, irrespective of party, who obstruct in any way the legislative enactment of the just measure so strongly demanded by the laboring classes of all parties."

MOUNTAIN OF COAL ON FIRE.

A REPETITION OF THE MAMMOTH MINE HORROR BARELY MISSED.

DENVER, Feb. 5.—Hundreds of families are fleeing for their lives from New Castle to-night. Mile after mile of coal is on fire and the loss will reach into the millions. Heat and smoke drive people and cattle away. The Colorado Midland railway is the leading owner of the coal mountains, and will be heavy loosers.

Just as the night shift, consisting of 200 men, were ready to enter the shaft the explosion occurred, and had this taken place 10 minutes later, there would have been a repetition of the Pennsylvania mine horror. How much longer the fire will continue it is impossible to say. All residents in the neighborhood are preparing to move to safe quarters.

THEY ARE STILL VOTING.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Feb. 5.—The fifty-seventh ballot to-day was as follows: Palmer 101; Cockrel sick. Republicans and F. M. B. A. did not vote; adjourned until to-morrow.

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 5.—The ballot far U. S. Senator to-day resulted: Moody, Republican, 39; Tripp, Democrat, 28; Campbell, Independent, 56; Mellville, Republican, 20. It is thought the Democrats and Independents will combine on a man in a day or two.

The only true practical
ELIXIR OF LIFE AND HEALTH.
is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE, far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic it might be called LIQUID LIFE,
since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spontaneity.

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

CALIFORNIA,
if remarkable for nothing else, will be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headache, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. The discovery was partly accidental but the present

THE NEW STYLE, PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, AND EXPRESSLY ADAPTED TO DELICATE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

REMEMBER,
there is no disease of low vitality, debility of functions, or nervous prostration for which

and its singular power over the lower organisms renders it the implacable foe of in malarial diseases, cholera, consumption, internal diseases, &c., and so great is its power as a germicide that it is an UNEQUALLED VERMIFUGE.

A book could be written of its virtues, and another of testimonials, but it is only necessary to remember its general action upon the liver, blood, brain and nerves, to realize its use in a majority of the ills that flesh is heir to, and that no family should ever be without a bottle of Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands of women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. —Miss Emma Louise Parry, of Cincinnati, who visited Miss Ella Rhone a few days ago, is a lady of considerable literary ability. She is a talented writer, and her latest work, "Life Among the Germans," met with great success.

—The sleepiest crowd that ever filled the Court House was assembled there on Friday afternoon. Spectators, jury, counsel and Court all looked as though they could drop off in half a minute.

—Everybody here is ambitious and longing for a "new Bellefonte." In Lock Haven they are so lack of all enthusiasm and ambition that they don't even think of trying to revive that dead old place.

—A fire in the cellar of the Potter House, Philipsburg, on last Sunday morning, came very near making a disastrous conflagration, but, owing to the prompt and efficient work of the firemen, it was put out without doing great damage.

—Tyroners are making a big blow about the prospect of there being about $200,000 spent in that place for new buildings and improvements during the coming season. Why that is a small amount for Bellefonte to spend in six months.

—Ex-Governor Beaver has spent most of this week in Philadelphia. General Hastings has not been home but once since the inauguration. Neither of the two gentlemen made their appearance in the court room during the two weeks of court just closed.

—Associate Judge Thos. A. Riley held a little Court in the arbitration room of the Court House on Thursday afternoon for the purpose of appointing a suitable committee and guardian to procure and properly guard a pension for a soldier's lunatic orphan.

—In the case of Noll vs Shope, an action in tresspass to recover possession of certain pieces and tracts of land, a cause the trial of which took up two days' time, the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the full measure of all the lands in dispute.

—Bellefonte has a very salubrious climate. It is very healthy and suitable for all purposes. It is the greatest place in the world for young men to fall in love, become engaged, and get married. Rumor saith that since the 6th of January the present Commissioner's clerk has fallen in love, become engaged and the cards will soon be out. Oh, this is a glorious place.

—Sheriff Ishler has decided that two days a week is enough for admitting visitors to the jail and he has therefore set apart Tuesdays and Fridays, from 10 a. m., to 3.30 p. m., as the days and hours when visitors will be admitted. This is a very commendable action on the part of the new Sheriff and one that shows he understands his business. The indiscriminate running in and out of the jail at all hours should have been abolished long ago.

—Notwithstanding the groundhog's prediction of cold weather to come it is said that in the Juniata Valley the jay bird trills his little lay, and the caterpillar wriggles over the trees. In this county the cherry tree and lilac bush are shooting their buds, while blooming pansies have already been gathered.

—The Ladies' Mite Society of the Howard Evangelical Church will hold an oyster supper in the room formerly occupied by Linn Smith, in the Packer & Love building, on Saturday evening, February 14th, 1891. Proceeds for the benefit of the Church. All are cordially invited to attend.

—A dog fight in the vicinity of the court house afforded considerable amusement for the lookers on while the members of the legal fraternity wriggled with anxiety to see which would whip. There is nothing so attractive to the human family, of the male persuasion, as a pretty girl, a circus or a dog fight.

—Editor Dillon, of the Renovo News, was married on Wednesday and is now off on a wedding tour to all the principal cities in the east. His newly made bride is now tasting of the sweets of being an editor's wife. However, we wish them all the happiness and joy possible to obtain in this world.

—Assist the Ladies Aid Society by giving liberally toward relieving the distress of the poor and needy of Bellefonte and vicinity. The ladies are doing a good and praise worthy work and they should be encouraged by prompt and liberal contributions from a generous public. Money, clothing and provisions will be very thankfully received.

—The business transacted by the Prohibition Conference which convened in the court house at 1 p. m., yesterday, was of an informal character consisting of a statement of work done throughout the State made by State Chairman Patton outlining a systematic basis of work by the party for the future especially in finance. Mr. Beyer made quite an encouraging address which was respectfully accepted by a rising vote.

—Our neighbor by the creek is going to branch out as the warm weather appears. In the columns of the Watchman this week appears a notice in effect that they have purchased a steam hay press and during the coming season offer to press and bale hay for the farmers cheaper and better than it can be done anywhere else. Oh, for shame! are you not satisfied with running the best Democratic paper in Centre county, being State Senator, and with all the county printing in view, that you cannot rest until you put in a steam hay press and go to baling hay?

—Isn't it something funny that if, as the Watchman alleges, there was card playing going on in the court house during the past three years, there was nothing said about it before? It is indeed a likely story that the Democratic papers would keep quiet and say nothing about it if such were the case. But now, just one month after the Democratic officials come in, it is discovered that there has been, or is now, card playing going on. What a terribly bad lot of people there must be in the "ring" now. Empty whiskey bottles sticking out of every snow bank and card playing going on inside. And every man in the ring a good church member, too. Oh, isn't it awful! Wonder if their wives know they play.

—It is true that the United States mail service is a great business and one might often wonder how it can be carried on so successfully and so cheaply as it is. As to safety, it is probably as safe a method of transmission as any now established. The per centage of lost matter is very small. As a general thing most all the stray letters end up in the dead letter office and, if important, are generally returned to the sender. Not many weeks ago a letter was mailed in the Bellefonte post-office in which had been placed two checks—one the check of a bank and the other a firm check. Nothing has ever been heard of the letter or checks since. The former never reached its destination and the checks have never been presented for payment.

HORNE—QUIGLEY.

A Brilliant Wedding at Blanchard. The Particulars in Full.

The usual quiet little village of Eagleville, this county, was all astir Tuesday on the occasion of the marriage of one of its prettiest daughters, Miss Carrie M., eldest daughter of Capt. James A. Quigley, a prominent merchant in that place, to Mr. W. D. Horne, of New Brunswick, N. J. From eleven o'clock until half past twelve carriages were wending their way from every direction conveying the many friends of the favored bride to the Presbyterian church at Beech Creek, where the beautiful ceremony was performed.

Precisely at 12.30 the inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march pealed forth from the organ by the skill of Miss Mattie White, of Beech Creek, when the bridal procession began to move. First came the ushers, in afternoon dress, who were as follows: Henry C. Quigley, a brother of the bride, Edward Leyden, Andrew White and Harry Fearon, of Beech Creek, T. J. Orbison and J. R. Hughes, of Bellefonte. Then followed the four bridesmaids, who looked lovely indeed in their rich attire and added great beauty to the scene. They were Miss Mary Hess, of Lock Haven, cousin of the bride, who was attired in blue silk mull; Miss Mame Snyder, of Eagleville, who wore a gown of white silk; Miss Anna Cresswell, of Petersburg, Pa., who was dressed in gray silk, and Miss Daisy Guy, of Pittsburg, who was attired in white silk. They preceeded the bride who came leaning on the arm of her father.

They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. T. L. Watson, of Morristown, N. J. Rev. S. M. Pomeroy, pastor of the church, then proceeded to perform the happy ceremony, sealing it with a ring. The bride was arrayed in white serge en train and carried a large bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was truly fair and lovely to behold. The groom is a practical chemist in New Brunswick, N. J., and lately was elected as an assistant in the chemical department of Rutgers College. He is a young man of exceptional intelligence, fine address and commanding presence. His collegiate education was obtained at Columbia College, New York City, where he graduated in 1886.

A delightful reception and delicious feast were tendered a large number of guests at the home of the bride, subsequently to the ceremony. From start to finish the happiest success attended every effort put forth to make the wedding grandly successful in every detail, and Capt. Quigley is to be congratulated upon his excellent engineering ability. The presents were exceedingly rich, costly and handsome.

Among the guests present from a dietance were Mr. and Mrs. Reeder, Misses Mary Thomas, Caroline Orvis Eleanor Mitchell, of Bellefonte; Mrs. John Harris, Mrs. Hess, Mrs Ball, Miss Bessie Ball, Miss Alice White, Messrs. Chas. Harris and Whit Hess, of Lock Haven; Mrs. J. D. Mason, of Scranton; Miss. Davis and Mr. Ott, of Williamsport; Mr. George Good and Miss Lizzie Good, of Osceola. Mr. and Mrs. Horne departed on the 4.30 train for an extended tour in the south after which they will take up their residence in New Brunswick, N. J.

—Last week Mr. Robert K. Wilson severed his connection with the Sheriff's office, where he had served so faithfully during the past three years in the capacity of deputy sheriff, having been one of the most efficient officers Centre county ever had. Mr. Wilson was always cool, collected and faithful in the discharge of his every duty. He served the best interests of his employer and the people of Centre county. Socially his equal is hard to find and as he takes his departure from Bellefonte he will be missed by hosts of friends in both parties. But such worth cannot remain long unrecognized and it is to be hoped that not many years will pass until Mr. Wilson can and will be re-called to Bellefonte to assume a more important position in official life.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

TURNS ON THE LIGHT THAT THE RAYS MAY FALL ON ALL.

Kind reader; did you ever try the task of getting on a sled at the bottom of a hill and try to slide upwards? If you didn't, you have no idea of real life. Now it is nothing to get on a sled at the top of a long hill and slide down; it requires no effort whatever, but to slide up is a task hard to accomplish. Now this is a fair illustration of real life. How many start on their journey at the top of the hill and slide down while very few who start at the bottom can slide up. But you can pull your sled up. It may take some struggling but by dint of considerable effort and perseverence you will get there finally. If you don't believe this try it once.

A "public office is a public trust" and for this reason it should be kept in good condition. It would be a good idea to remove some of the cobwebs and dirt from the waiting room of the post-office; also polish up the brass signs which are becoming moldy from lack of proper attention.

Flattery is a delicate morsel. A little of it tastes sweet to a wise man while a good bit of it tastes sweet to a fool. Strange how many people there are in this world who are susceptible to flattery.

Just why it is that some of our merchants prefer piling their wares out on the pavement as a means of advertising in preference to advertising in a newspaper is hard to understand. Certain it is that the way is not near so effective or productive of good results as a well-worded announcement published in the town paper would be. To philosophize. An advertisement would be seen every day and read by hundreds of people—the weather wet or dry. A sidewalk display will be seen only by the few who happen to pass that way on clear sunshiny days. If more of the merchants in Bellefonte would advertise more liberally it would require less stools in their stores for their clerks to rest on between customers. If you don't believe this plant a good "ad" in the DAILY NEWS and REPUBLICAN for a month or so and you will be surprised at the results.

This has thus far been a good winter in a good many ways. It has been a good winter for the farmer as the snow covered and would thus preserve his crops for the coming season; there was good sleighing, thus giving him a chance to do all his hauling. The winter was a good one for the coal dealer, the ice man, the plumber and a host of unmentionables. But especially has it been a good winter for the man who has a housefull of marriageable daughters; the good coasting gave the lovesick swain a splendid opportunity and now the crop of spring marriages promises to be greater than ever known before.

Said a man on Saturday: Why should a poor man keep his pavement clean when the rich do not; That's easy; because the street commissioner will compel a poor man while he is afraid to say anything to a rich man. But then the latter kind are very scarce in Bellefonte who refuse to keep their pavements clean.

There is a man in Tyrone who is so stingy he only breathes once in a minute and eats nothing but soup to save wear and tear on his nostrils and throat. That man should move to Lock Haven.

A wonderful discovery! Three business men in Bellefonte who are strong advocates of the free coinage of silver. These men advocate it because they think they are right. But there is also a man living in Bellefonte who advocates free coinage, and he is not a business man. He is the genuine, double-jointed, always-busted regular old-time two-for-a-cent crank. The man, like whom there is only one allowable in any town of less than ten thousand inhabitants—there is only one in Bellefonte. He always argues to be contrary; he is your friend to your face and your enemy behind yodr back; he always knows more than ten men combined and if he had an opportunity could even run a newspaper. Heaven be praised there is only one such near Bellefonte.

The pen that writes the obituary is dipped in charity, but the one that writes the biography is dipped in gall. And if the latter happens to be a politician a little wormwood is generally added.

Our sorrows should be written with invisible ink, and our joys chronicled with a never fading fluid.

There is always more or less staggering at a stag party. This has reference to any occurring in Bellefonte.

About the only talk a man about town hears now-a-days is every one growling because some other person don't do something to revive business. If the growlers would all go to work and do something business would be brisk enough.

A man said yesterday that this kind of winter was a forecast of good times next summer. His reason was a fair prospect for good crops of all kinds, and good crops mean better times than numberless industries. This man is a philosopher of the old school. The present generation demands numberless industries and good crops in order to have the "good old times."

Dissolution of Partnership.

On Tuesday the partnership heretofore existing between Daniel Garman and his son Edward F., doing business under the firm name of D. Garman & Son, was dissolved, Mr. Daniel Garman retiring and Mr. Edward F. Garman assuming entire ownership and management. We congratulate this young and enterprising busines man on this advanced step in business and trust his future career as a merchant may be prosperous and continue to grow until he will be the John Wanamaker of Bellefonte. Starting in but a few years ago on a limited scale, it has been chiefly through his business tact and management, as well as taste in selection and a thorough knowledge of the wants and demands of the public in general, that the store has climed up until now it is the best, in that line, in Centre county. There is not the least doubt but that Ed. will make a success of his sole venture.

Washington's Birthday Services.

The Rev. T. B. Cross will preach a patriotic sermon in the Baptist church in Milesburg on the 22nd, at 3 o'clock p. m. The Patriotic Sons of America, American Mechanics and Grand Army of the Republic, will be in attendance, several hundred in all. The subject will be ably handled by the reverend and will be a treat for all who hear him. Arrangements are being made to accommodate an extra amount in the church. We trust that all who can, will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear this rare sermon.

—There is a bill now pending before the legislature making provision for moneys to be refunded to counties in the State to replace the amount spent to construct or replace the bridges destroyed by the flood of 1889. Should the bill pass and become a law Centre county would receive about seventeen thousand dollars. That would place her in a pretty fair financial situation.

How to make money in Wall street is what troubles the average New Yorker. We were troubled however with catarrh until Old Saul's Catarrh Cure cured us. Sold for 25 cents.
